MARION STORES LAUNCH WINTER AND FALL SALES

Festival Scheduled for Next Few Weeks Announced with Special Star Addition

SEEK OUT-OF-TOWN TRADE

Copies of Fashion Edition Carried into Neighboring Towns and Villages

Shoppers within a wide radius of Marion will be given an opportunity to shop to an advantage for the next few weeks when Marion merchants stage their big festival of fall and winter sales. Every type of merchandise to be found in stores big and little will be available in this feast of bargains for practically every store in the city has joined in the program of timely purchasing.

In order than all may share in this advantageous event copies of today's Star, carrying a special advertising section is being sent to every home in the county and nearby counties, through the courtesy of Marion merchants.

Marion stores are "all set" for the event and the season's new and choicest wares are to be found on the shelves and racks to say nothing of the wide variety of choice.

Clothing Displays

Of particular interest to women is the choice and exclusive array of wearing apparel in the season's newest tones and models. Domestic wares will be featured in all the departments and special attention is called to the merchandise to be found in staples. Novelties, too, will have a share in the bargain feast and many new and clever ideas are presented for the shopper who gives ear to the "Buy Early for Christmas" slogan.

Men will find much of interest in the various stores catering to items of apparel, radios, automobile accessories and hardware. Furniture stores also offer a wide variety of merchandise to add a note of coziness to the home during the coming winter.

CAUSE OF RAIL CRASH SOUGHT BY OFFICIALS

Lehigh Road Blames Central Railroad; Both Ahead of Schedule, Claim

Bethlehem, Pa., Sept. 28—An investigation of the causes and an effort to fix responsibility for the collision of the Scranton Flier of the Central Railroad of New Jersey and the Lehigh Limited almost under the sheds of the union station here, in which eight persons were killed and 40 injured, was scheduled to open today.

The Jersey Central train ploughed through the Lehigh train at an intersection of the two roads here yesterday, in clear weather and after the trains had been in full view of each other for some minutes.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad issued a statement implying that the blame rested with the Central Railroad of New Jersey. Henry Schmidt, engineer of the Scranton Flier, who is in St. Luke's Hospital suffering slight injuries, said:

"I think something was wrong with the signals. I threw my brakes and blew my whistle. I was too close and could not stop. If the Lehigh Limited had been moving fast the accident would not have happened."

The investigation is expected to determine if the signal was set against Schmidt. Both trains were said to have been moving at about 15 miles an hour, and the Lehigh Valley Railroad admitted that the limited was slightly ahead of time. It is said the Scranton Flier also was running ahead of schedule.

REFINANCING PLAN OF GOODYEAR IS ATTACKED

Legality of $100,000,000 Proposal Goes into Courts Again Today

Akron, Sept. 28—The legality of the $100,000,000 refinancing plan of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., which was attacked four years ago, again went into the courts here today.

Action requesting that the litigation be re-opened was begun by Frank C. Tomlinson, a stockholder, seeking review in the courts of a "settlement" of six stockholders' suits here in 1922 on the grounds that it was reached without any evidence or arguments being heard by the court.

While no confirmation has been obtained, it is common gossip here that interests favorable to the former management of the company are backing Tomlinson's case in order to wrest control from the banking group headed by Dillon, Read & Co.

The principal point of attack is the 10,000 shares of management stock, held in trust by Clarence Dillon and Owen Young, New York, and John Sherwin, Cleveland, by virtue of which the bankers control the company.

Suits already are pending in the Ohio Supreme Court alleging that the management stock is illegal.

DIES OF KNIFE WOUNDS

Elyria, Sept. 28—Bert Edwards, Cleveland, died in Memorial Hospital here today as the result of knife wounds received in a battle following a gambling game, police here declared. George Johnson, Cleveland, was arrested today in connection with the affair. Edwards' jugular vein was severed.

INDIANA'S DOUBLE SENATORIAL CAMPAIGN INVOLVES FOUR IN HOT CONTESTS

JAMES E. WATSON

ALBERT STUMP

ARTHUR R. ROBINSON

EVANS WOOLLEN

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 28 Most states manage considerable excitement in electing one senator. Indiana is to elect two this fall, one to complete the term of the late Senator S. M. Ralston and another, for the usual term.

Evans Woollen is the Democratic nominee who is expected to win the incomplete term seat from Senator Arthur R. Robinson, who was appointed by the governor at the time of Senator Ralston's death. Senator Watson finds himself opposed by a very active Democratic nominee, Albert Stump, an Indianapolis attorney, in the regular election.

Those who are believed to be authorities say that Senator Watson's breaking away from administration policies last spring may handicap him in the coming election.

AL SMITH AND OGDEN L. MILLS ARE NOMINATED

Democrats and Republicans of New York Name Leaders at Conventions

Convention Hall, Syracuse, N. Y. Sept. 28 — Governor Al Smith was placed in nomination for governor of New York at he closing session of the Democratic state convention today by Mayor John Boyd Thatcher, of Albany.

After the platform had been unanimously adopted, Mayor Thacher went to the platform and placed Governor Smith's name before the delegates. The first mention of the governor's name was greeted with wild acclaim.

The band struck up "The Sidewalks of New York," and the Al Smith lovefest was in full swing. The spectators in the galleries stood and joined the delegates in cheering.

Then the parade started and the scenes of the democratic national convention in 1924, when Governor Smith's name was placed before the delegates for president, were re-enacted. In less than two minutes, horns and cowbells made their sudden appearance in the hands of men and women who marched around the arena blowing lustily and shouting:

"Al, Al, the greatest of them all."

MILLS NOMINATED BY NEW YORK G. O. P.

Madison Square Garden, New York, Sept. 28—Representative Ogden L. Mills, the wealthy scion of an old New York family, was nominated by the republican state convention today to oppose Governor Al Smith, the fifth time democratic nominee, in November.

Mills' name was the only one to go before the convention in accordance with the pre-arranged plans of the leaders.

NEW YORK G. O. P. AVOIDS ISSUE OF PROHIBITION

New York, Sept. 28—The republicans of New York marched out in the middle of the road today on the controversial issue of prohibition—and thereby averted what promised to be the most disastrous split in the history of the party.

The platform leans to the dry side; the candidates to the wet. Having adopted a plank pledging the party to strict law enforcement, the state convention today proceeded to the serious business of nominating at the head of the state ticket two men who are as well known for their wet views almost as Governor Al Smith.

These are Senator James Wadsworth and Representative Ogden L. Mills. To the latter falls the task of opposing "Al's" thrust for a fourth term at Albany next November. Thus the wets and the drys emerged from an embarrassing situation with at least a semblance of victory. The extreme right drys from upstate are dissatisfied, but no less so than the extreme left wets from downstate. There was a lot of muttering today in the wake of the platform's adoption, but the vast majority of the 1316 convention delegates are content and consider themselves well out of a situation that had the party leaders frantic with worry and trepidation.

FIRE DESTROYS PLANT OF CINCINNATI CONCERN

Cincinnati, Sept. 28—Fire of undetermined origin today destroyed the plant of the Day Wood Heel Co. here.

All available downtown companies battled the blaze to no avail.

Dense choking smoke from burning celluloid hampered firemen. The stock of celluloid was for use in covering wooden heels of women's slippers.

SLAYER OF GIRL WILL DIE IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

Coshocton, Sept. 28—Robert F. Thompson, 54, convicted of strangling to death 10-year-old Gertrude O'Strosph, today stood sentenced to die in the electric chair at the state penitentiary, Jan. 8.

Judge James Glenn overruled the motion of defense counsel for a new trial and passed sentence.

Workers Discredit Reports of Tappings Heard in Shaft Where Men are Held

Telegraph Operator Fails To Hear Anything That Might Be Morse Code Signals; Correspondent Descends into Wrecked Mine; Officials Not Discouraged

By HOWARD C. MAYER

Ironwood, Mich., Sept. 28—Insanity, cold, starvation.

These three grim perils stalk side-by-side blazing the way of death 727 feet below the surface of the ground where 33 miners have been imprisoned in the G-Pabst mine here since Friday at noon.

Shortly before noon today, your correspondent was the first newspaperman to descend the wrecked G shaft to the lowest level, where a crew of 10 men, working on a suspended platform, are relining the opening with steel, concrete and timber. This rescue party is working 280 feet below the level of the ground and a survey of the black workshop, dimly illuminated by carbide lamps, reveals that if the entombed men are to be saved, it will not be through this method of rescue. In the F-Aurora mine, however, reports come to the surface of fast progress on the 300-foot bore being made from the thirteenth level of that mine to the eighth of the G-Pabst where at least 40 of the victims of the slide are trapped.

Making Progress

Late today may see the completion of this drift. The rescuers believe they are less than 60 feet from the victims. If such is the case, it is believed that the men on the eighth level will be found alive.

A mine captain returning from the twenty-first level reported that his crew was making excellent progress there. He said he believed he could get to the twentieth level by tomorrow. If the main shaft is not blocked at that point, he will be able to descend directly to the imprisoned men.

The diamond drill for the emplacement of which it was necessary to blast through granite to the second level of the G-shaft, has required constant repair and little faith is pinned on it as a means of reaching the men.

Discount Tappings

Although the officials of the Oliver Iron Mining Co. have been sending out reports of tappings heard in the main shaft since last night, workers on the job discredit these announcements. Because of the apprehension held by relatives and friends of the men below they serve to placate the townspeople here, although mumblings of dissatisfaction are to be heard on all sides.

OHIOAN ARRESTED IN HANGING OF HIS WIFE

Police Find Three Blows Had Been Struck on Wooster Woman's Head

Wooster, Sept. 28—County officials here today declared that a chain of evidence is being forged in the case of Charles Hahn, 59, bound over yesterday to the grand jury in connection with the death of wife, Julia, 49.

Mrs. Hahn's body was found hanging by a rope in her home last Wednesday. A suicide theory was generally accepted at first, but later a postmortem was ordered when the coroner discovered marks on the woman's head.

Three blows had been struck by a hammer, later found nearby with hairs from Mrs. Hahn's head clinging to it. The postmortem revealed that each of the three blows could have caused death.

The Hahns' three children, aged eight, nine and ten, told officers today that their parents had quarreled early last Wednesday morning before they went to school.

Hahn declares he found his wife's body when he returned from a fishing trip.

APPOINTMENTS LISTED AS CONFERENCE CLOSES

Bishop Henderson, Cincinnati, Announces Names of Pastors for Ensuing Year

Closing the sessions of the 1926 conference of the northwestern Ohio district of the Methodist Episcopal church at Elyria, this morning, Bishop Theodore Henderson, Cincinnati, announced the appointments to pastorates for the coming year.

Included in the list was the appointment of Rev. F. C. Anderson, Delaware to the post of superintendent of the Mansfield District. Among those in his charge will be Rev. J. W. Dowds, Bucyrus; Rev. E. E. Stone, Ashley; Rev. F. S. Fancher, Caledonia; Rev. O. L. Williams, Cardington

MUNICIPAL COURT TO BE HELD ON SECOND FLOOR

Decision Reached at Conference Following City Council Meeting

Marion's new municipal court, which is to begin functioning Jan. 1, will have its quarters on the second floor of the Eagles' building on W. Center-st. This was agreed upon last evening at a conference of the City Council building committee held following the semi-monthly council meeting. The decision definitely disposes of the report that there was a possibility of the courtroom being placed on the first floor.

The city offices will occupy all of the first floor and part of the second after January 1 and it is expected that probably two offices now in the first floor will be moved above. One of these is likely to be the City Auditor's office.

Definite plans for arrangement of the new municipal quarters have not been completed. White & Hochstetter, local architects, have drawn up tentative plans which may be used by the committee.

Preliminary details will be rushed as rapidly as possible in order that remodeling may be started about the middle of November.

STATE OFFICIALS RESUME SEARCH FOR PEN TRUSTY

Columbus, Sept. 28—Efforts to locate C. W. Egan, 69, alias Combs, state penitentiary trusty who disappeared from the state hospital here where he was working, were resumed today.

Egan was sentenced to serve one to five years by the Stark County Court where he was convicted of manufacturing liquor.

RAIN CAUSING HAVOC ON ROAD WORK IN COUNTY

Construction of Morral Highway Held Up More Than Week

Continuous rainfall is causing havoc in the road repairing and building campaign of Marion County, County Surveyor Cecil R. Leavens said today.

For more than a week, Malloy & Seckel, contractors for the building of the road leading to Morral, have been awaiting favorable weather to complete the construction of the highway. Only about four hours' work is necessary for the completion of the pike.

Rebuilding of Fairground-st. east to Madison-av, and E. Center-st, began some time ago, but has not progressed very rapidly. The road now is a sea of mud and cannot possibly be rebuilt until favorable weather arrives. Malloy & Seckel also have the contract for this road.

Detour Flooded

Repair work on the Mt. Vernon-pk was to have been started some time ago but the detour is expected to head traffic over Merchant-av, and at present Merchant-av has the appearance of a combination of miniature lakes. Crushed stone will be used in repairing Merchant-av for traffic when the water disappears.

It is impossible to make progress in the construction of the Marion Delaware-rd now and contractors have been hampered ever since the work began. Where the road once passed the Harding Memorial now stands a deep marsh.

Other repair work being carried on in Marion County is being held up while road workers and contractors are unable to remedy conditions and are compelled to "loaf" for days at a time.

ACCIDENT VICTIMS IN CRITICAL CONDITION

W. E. Color Seriously Injured; Miss Mildred Moore Develops Pneumonia

William E. Color, former Marion councilman, and Miss Mildred Moore, both of whom live at 235 Blaine-av, this city, are in an extremely serious condition at the White Cross Hospital in Columbus as the result of injuries sustained in an automobile accident near Westerville, Saturday afternoon, according to word received shortly before noon today by Mr. Color's brother, Samuel Color of 388 Windsor-st.

Miss Moore has developed pneumonia, which adds greatly to the gravity of her condition. An X-ray was to be taken today to ascertain the extent of Mr. Color's injuries. Mrs. Color, who was also in the accident, is not in a serious condition and may be able to leave the hospital within a few days.

WILL RECOMMEND THAT PRIMARY BE HELD IN MAY

Columbus, Sept. 28—Recommendations that the Ohio primary be held in May instead of August and that one of the two primaries held in presidential years be abolished, will be made to the next general assembly by a special committee created by the last legislature to study the state's election laws and submit suggestions for revision, it was announced today by Secretary of State Thad Brown, chairman of the committee.

Seek Ira Shaffer on Manslaughter Charge; Wife Dies

Mrs. Shaffer Succumbs in City Hospital from Injuries Sustained When Touring Car Crashes Headon into City Streetcar on W. Center-St

HUSBAND FINED $100 FOR DRIVING INTOXICATED

Released After Paying Assessment; Mr. and Mrs. Orville Liggett, Guests of Shaffers on Fatal Ride, Expected To Be Important Witnesses

CHARGES of manslaughter in connection with the death of his wife, Mrs. Ellen H. Shaffer, 45, accident victim, were filed at noon today against Ira L. Shaffer, 356 Waterloo-st, by Police Chief James W. Thompson.

Mrs. Shaffer died at 8:45 o'clock last night in City Hospital from injuries sustained when the Willys-Knight touring car driven by her husband crashed headon into a westbound city car in front of the Central Junior High School building Sunday night.

Shaffer was intoxicated at the time of the wreck, according to the testimony of police officials, and drove the automobile head-on into the streetcar without any apparent excuse or reason. Shaffer, it is said, asserts that he swerved his automobile into the car track to avoid striking another machine but this claim is refuted by William A. Cook of Short-st, motorman of the street car, who says that there was no other automobile excepting Shaffer's in sight.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Liggett of 537 W. Columbia-st, who were in the rear seat of the Shaffer car, are expected to be important witnesses.

Given Hearing

After spending Sunday night and all of Monday in the City prison, Shaffer was taken before Mayor Hazen at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon and tried on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated. He was found guilty and fined $100 and was released after payment. It was agreed among city officials at the time, however, that more serious charges would be filed against Shaffer should his wife die.

In the hearing yesterday afternoon, Shaffer admitted that he had been drinking, although refusing to say that he was intoxicated. Officer Ira Surock, however, testified that Shaffer was under the influence of liquor at the time of his arrest, which came shortly after the wreck.

All four occupants of the automobile, which was completely demolished, were injured but Shaffer and Mr. and Mrs. Liggett were able to leave the hospital

RED CROSS WORKERS IN CHARGE AT MIAMI

Miami, Fla., Sept. 28—National Red Cross workers today took charge of all relief work here, citizens committees being relieved of all duties. Two hundred additional Red Cross workers from northern cities are on their way here.

Evacuation of the east coast district by Florida national guardsmen began last night when seven officers and 118 enlisted men left for their homes. Three officers and 38 men left the Fort Lauderdale area. Ten officers and 133 men still remain on duty here while one officer and 25 men remain at Fort Lauderdale.

Bowling Proves To Be Most Popular Attraction on Program

Members of the Y. M. C. A. entertained their families and friends Monday night at the annual open house party held in the association building for the purpose of announcing the opening of the fall and winter program.

More than 750 members and guests were reported in attendance during the evening's program which opened at 7:30 o'clock. Guests were at liberty to use any part of the association's equipment and bowling proved to be the most popular attraction.

Music for the occasion was furnished by the Jolly Junior June Bugs orchestra directed by Miss Elsa Sage of Harding High School.

Doughnuts and cider were served as refreshments at the close of the evening's program.

FIND 50,000 LIVING IN SLUMS OF GLASGOW

Glasgow, Sept. 28—Authorities of this city have inaugurated a thorough campaign to wipe out the slum districts and their investigations have revealed some shocking conditions. There are 14,000 "slum houses" in the city, accommodating 50,000 persons. Some of these are never penetrated by the sun, gas being kept burning all day, summer and winter. Nearly 1,000 houses have been declared entirely unfit for human habitation.

COUNCIL WILL NO LONGER CUT ASSESSMENTS

Protesting Property Owners Must Take Matter Through Court, Mouser Says

There is no longer any possibility of property owners obtaining reductions of assessments levied for this year's street improvements through action of City Council, according to information given to council members by City Solicitor Grant E. Mouser Jr. at their semi-monthly meeting last night.

Council can not legally reduce assessments after they have been certified to the County Auditor for collection, and as all of this year's assessment sheets were sent to the auditor on Sept. 15, the only recourse left for property owners who feel that they have been overcharged is said to be through court action. The solicitor said that this question has been definitely decided in court rulings and opinions from the Attorney General of the state.

Cites Case

This information was given to Council after City Engineer T. S. Cathers had announced that a woman whose property is on the tax duplicate for $300 had been assessed $400 for a street paving improvement. As the law provides that assessments can not legally total more than one-third of the value of a property, it appears that the charge in this instance is about $300 too high.

The engineer informed council that he was not recommending a reduction but was merely presenting the matter at the property owner's request. He said that all assessments on an improvement are figured on a uniform basis, the cost of construction being pro-rated according to the foot frontage of the various properties. It is not the duty of the engineering department or any other city officials to decide whether or not properties are of sufficient

WANT $13,000,000 FOR DRY LAW ENFORCEMENT

Amount Does Not Include Justice Department Costs or Coast Guard

Washington, Sept. 28—Thirteen million dollars will be requested for prohibition enforcement during the fiscal year 1928, it was said at the treasury today.

This amount, however, will not include the cost of enforcement in the Department of Justice, the coast guard or the bureau of customs.

The budget bureau now has the proposed appropriation under consideration.

New Jersey probably will be made an independent prohibition district, L. C. Andrews, dry chief, declared today. The state is linked with the eastern Pennsylvania district, with headquarters in Philadelphia.

The liquor smuggling and alcohol diversion problems could be met better if headquarters were located in the state, Andrews believes.

Electric Engine Supplanting Steam.

The New York Central, which for years has been using electric motive power for the handling of its passenger service into and out of New York City, is soon to utilize electric engines for the hauling of its freight trains in the same territory.

Preparatory to the change, tests were recently made of the relative power of steam and electric engines. A regulation steam freight engine was coupled onto a train of 108 cars. It puffed and chugged, and with the utmost difficulty attained a speed of five miles an hour.

One of the big new electric locomotives was then attached to the same train—a new and larger design of electric engine than any heretofore seen in New York—and it hauled the load of 3,000 tons for 144 miles at a speed in excess of thirty-two miles an hour, and yet had both power, and hence speed, in reserve. After twelve hours of the most severe testing, officials of the road announced that the big electric locomotive had met every test in a manner most satisfactory, exceeding their most sanguine expectations. "It moved the line of box cars almost a mile in length around difficult curves so smoothly," says a report of the test, "that J. J. Rogers, the veteran engineer who piloted it, said it was 'easier than taking the Twentieth Century Limited out of Harmon.'"

The railroads of the country, in great part due to the backset they suffered during the war as the result of governmental operation and control, have not been in shape until the last two or three years to risk extensive improvements of such cost as the electrification of their lines would involve, but that has not estopped their recognition of the fact that it is cheaper, in the long run, to transmit power over a wire than to haul the materials for making it in a tender. Now that conditions show decided improvement and they once more have their heads above the sea of financial troubles which has long buffeted them, we may naturally anticipate a decided movement toward electric power. That its merits are many is manifest. If it has disadvantages, neither experimentation nor service has developed them.

Europe Pays Us Compliment.

Europe may speak of us as "Shylocks" and refer to our country as the "Land of Money Grabbers," but she pays us the highest tribute within her power and the greatest compliment she is able to bestow by copying as only business and industrial methods and doing her utmost to imitate them. The admission that we over here in America are accomplishing advances and improvements over the methods and achievements of the Old world undoubtedly leaves a bitter taste in the European mouth, but she has been forced to it, and that she is endeavoring to substitute our methods for her own is manifested by the many elaborate surveys of our business and industrial systems which have made and is still making.

In no field, perhaps, is this enforced respect for our achievements so marked as in that of industrial economics. For some time after the Great war, Europe was prone to hold the marked prestige we had gained in the industrial field largely due to the impetus our industries acquired during the war, but as the years have passed European industrialists have been forced to take a broader view. Our ability to continue to pay the highest wages known to all history and at the same time successfully compete with foreign manufacturers in their home markets has opened the eyes of European industrialists. They doubted our ability to do so as long as they could, but at last they have been forced to concede that our manufacturing methods are superior or our manufactures are superior and thus more desirable, or that our present position in the field of industry is due to a combination of the two. As a result of this change of front regarding American manufactures and the methods followed in producing them, European industrialists have been sending over their experts to study our way of doing things and European economists not only have given the reports of these experts the utmost consideration, but many of them have come to the United States to study our methods at first hand.

And this brings up a very odd situation. While Europe has been sending over her experts to study our business and industrial economics that she may adopt them, thus recognizing them as superior to her own, there is almost constant agitation in this country for additional governmental supervision of business and industry if not absolute government control. In other words, the agitators for more government in business would have us adopt the European plan of more government in business which European industrialism is doing its utmost to discard that it may be more nearly on an equality with industry in America. Europe is recognizing a fact, which champions of more government in business over here refuse to concede is a fact, that the business prosperity being enjoyed here in the United States is next to impossible in Europe where governmental supervision, governmental direction and paternalism generally in industry is an outstanding policy and in some countries is carried to the extreme.

One might assume that conditions in European industry today, compared with the conditions in industry in the United States, would cause the champions of additional governmental powers in business and industry to pause and think a bit; that they might recognize the fact that such prosperity as our industries enjoy under private management is not because of, but rather in spite of such governmental meddling as they are forced to suffer. But apparently they will not.

After all, it's largely a matter of viewpoint. In some lands casinos are conducted as a means of raising revenue, in others lotteries are employed, but over here our preference is for prize fights.

LOPPING OFF THE LIMBS WHEN THE TREE SHOULD BE DESTROYED.

Too Costly To Have Toothache.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Toothache is a real illness. You may have no temperature. You may be able to go about your affairs. But you can't be happy and you can't be efficient if you have an aching tooth. You feel sick; you look sick; you act sick. You are sick.

The proper treatment for toothache is not to have it.

This may sound foolish, but it isn't. You may not escape pneumonia or an automobile accident. Either one may be forced upon you. But you know how to escape the toothache. If you have it, it is because you chose to have it.

No matter how poor you are, you should not neglect your teeth. If you are poor you will be poorer when your teeth begin to ache. You won't be any good at your job and you will get "fired."

If you can't get the money any other way, stay away from the movies for a month and use your savings to pay a dentist. It won't cost much if you begin your visits to the dental office before big cavities have formed or the gums have become diseased.

If you are poor and live in a modern community, you can get free dental service through the schools or the board of health. Every progressive locality has dental clinics.

If you are not so poor, you have no excuse for avoiding the dentist. You can afford to go, and you owe it to yourself to attend to your teeth.

If you have early, regular and scientific dental care you won't have the toothache. One way or another you can get such care if you choose to do so. If you don't get it, it is because you deliberately neglected to find relief.

In short, then, if you have toothache it is because you chose to have it.

One of the common things a doctor hears is this: "What have I ever done to be sent such suffering?"

A good many times the doctor can truthfully reply: "You did nothing. It isn't your fault."

But when a responsible, intelligent, grown-up, free moral agent inquires about the toothache: "Why am I made to suffer this way?"—there is but one answer: "You deliberately elected to have the toothache! It is your own fault!"

But if you have the toothache, it is "crying over spilled milk" to discuss the neglects of the past. The thing to do now is to get rid of the dreadful pain. The dentist has many remedies at hand besides pulling out the tooth. He may be able to correct the defect in speedy and comfortable fashion. See him at once.

We may paraphrase modern advertising by saying: "Don't envy good teeth, good-looking teeth, desirable teeth—have them."—Copyright, 1926.

There are now more than 5,000 miles of airways in operation in the United States. About 2,000 miles are artificially lighted. Miller, head of the department of mechanical engineering in "Boston Tech," says:

"The increasing demands upon human energy in this age of swift progress and keen competition call for new measures for physical comfort and protection. Extreme summer heat slows human activity and lowers efficiency in all branches of endeavor, whether it be in factory, office building or home.

"The household furnace has overcome the cold of winter, but humanity still suffers from summer heat. It seems likely that within a few years cool rooms in which to work and live will be considered just as much a necessity as warm homes and buildings are in winter.

"It is not a serious problem now to produce air-conditioning and cooling plans for domestic purposes."

Poems That Live.

CARILLON.

In the ancient town of Bruges,
In the quaint old Flemish city,
As the evening shades descended,
Low at times and loud at times,
And changing like a poet's rhymes,
Rang the beautiful wild chimes
From the belfry in the market
Of the ancient town of Bruges.

But amid my broken slumbers
Still I heard those magic numbers,
As they loud proclaimed the flight
And stolen marches of the night;
Till their chimes in sweet collision
Mingled with each wandering vision,
Mingled with the fortune-telling
Gypsy-bands of dreams and fancies,
Which amid the waste expanses
Of the silent land of trances
Have their solitary dwelling.
All else seemed asleep in Bruges,
In the quaint old Flemish city.

And I thought how like these chimes
Are the poet's airy rhymes,
All his rhymes and roundelays,
His conceits and songs and ditties,
From the belfry of his brain,
Scattered downward, though in vain,
On the roofs and stones of cities!
For by night the drowsy ear
Under its curtains can not hear,
And by day men go their ways,
Hearing the music as they pass,
But deeming it no more, alas!
Than the hollow sound of brass.

Thus dreamed I, as by night I lay
In Bruges, at the Fleur-de-Ble,
Listening with a wild delight
To the chimes that, through the night,
Rang their changes from the belfry
Of that quaint old Flemish city.
—Henry W. Longfellow.

"MOVIE MADNESS" PRESAGES DIVORCE

Prince and Princess Eitel Friedrich

Alleging humiliation to himself and to his noble relatives as but one result of his wife's constant endeavors to break into the movies, Prince Eitel Friedrich, son of the ex-Kaiser of Germany, has instituted divorce proceedings against the Princess. Both she and he have been unhappy in marriage for the last several years. The divorce is expected to be granted.

Air of Mystery and Romance Surrounds Man in Hospital

CHARLES RUBENSTEIN, a stranger about whom there is an air of considerable mystery and romance, is convalescing at the City Hospital, where he was taken after being found in a semi-conscious condition on Oak-st last Saturday, and it is believed by local authorities that he will be able to continue on his journey to Pittsburgh within a few days.

Rubenstein, who says that he served in the World War as a soldier in the Italian army, and who bears four bullet wounds as evidence of the service, was found on the street by police and has since been in charge of Sanitary Officer Charles M. Tobin, who has supervision over the city's charity cases.

Believed Egyptian

Rubenstein, who is believed to be an Egyptian and is about 38 years of age, tells of having started on an automobile trip with three companions and of having left them when he became ill on their arrival in Marion.

He is subject to nervous attacks which render him helpless and he was in that condition when police discovered him lying on Oak-st. His physical disability is a result of shell shock sustained in the war, local authorities believe. He has two bullet wounds in his head, one in his back and another in his left leg.

Gets Pension

The stranger says that he has two children who live with his parents in Egypt. His wife died about two years ago. He states that he receives $50 monthly as war service compensation from the Italian government but that he sends this money to Egypt for the support of his children.

Rubenstein has obtained work in several cities during his travels in America but has been unable to remain employed because of his wrecked nerves and the attacks come upon him frequently as a consequence of his wounds and shell-shocked condition.

He has requested that he be provided with means for going on to Pittsburgh as soon as his condition is sufficiently improved. This request will be granted by Mr. Tobin and the expense, as well as the cost of keeping Rubenstein in the hospital here, will be paid from the city's relief funds.

MERTON RECALLED TO STAND IN GRAFT TRIAL

German Financier Proves Hazy Witness; Going Back to Germany

New York, Sept. 28—Richard Merton, German financier and one of the principal witnesses in the graft conspiracy trial of Harry M. Daugherty and Thomas W. Miller, was recalled to the stand today in Federal District Court.

Merton, who came here as a government witness, previously had testified as to the manner in which he brought about the government approval in 1921 of the $7,000,000 claim of the American Metals Co. for property seized during the war.

He was recalled so as to enable the defense to cross-examine him and permit him to sail for Germany as soon as possible.

Merton was a hazy witness this morning.

The bodies of Mrs. Robert Hunnell and Mrs. A. C. Foulk were taken from the river near Henderson, W. Va., 15 miles from here.

ficient value to keep assessments within the one-third limitation.

The solicitor's announcement is expected to prevent the filing of additional petitions for reduction of assessments. Several came before Council at recent meetings but in each instance the members decided that the matter is one which should be taken into court and adjusted there in case any change in the assessments is warranted.

Action on the installation of several street lights and water service extensions was taken by council.

Pass Resolution

Resolutions authorizing the C., D. & M. Electric Light & Power Co. to install street lights at the intersection of Klerx-st and the alley between Oak and Prospect-sts and at the intersection of Grove and Wall-sts were adopted. A petition for a light on N. State-st between Fairview-st and Hecker-av was referred to the street light committee.

A resolution directing the Marion Water Co. to extend its lines to provide service for properties on Henry-st between Darius and Buckeye-sts was adopted and petitions for similar extensions on Waterloo-st from Bennett-st to Brown-av and on Florence-st from Davids-st to the second alley west of Davids, were referred to the city solicitor with instructions to prepare legislation necessary for granting the requests.

Ordinance Passed

An ordinance was adopted making an additional appropriation of $907.20 for operation of the city's sewage treatment plant during the remainder of this year. This represents the difference between the original appropriation and the revenue actually obtained from the tax levy. As the money could legally be used for no other purpose, amendment of the original appropriation ordinance was necessary to authorize its expenditure.

A petition for the construction of a sanitary and storm-water sewer on Fahey-st from Silver-st to the north line of lots Nos. 5,370 and 5,380 was referred to the solicitor for the preparation of necessary legislation.

the G-shaft to the emergency platform today, came to the surface with the report that he could hear nothing which might be Morse code signals.

May Use Stethescope

When your correspondent descended to this level, a miner called his attention to what are called tappings. The sounds emanate from the black chasm below and might well be echoes of the sledge hammers pounding in the shaft above. Despite the fact that trained ears might be able to differentiate between echoes and original sounds, no miner in the shaft has been found by your correspondent who will admit that he believes them to be tappings as announced early this morning by company officials.

"There may be tappings but I have not heard them," one veteran mine captain said after he had come from an all night vigil in the shaft. "I can't believe that tappings could be heard because of the fact that earth and rock lie between us and the men and my experience in the mines has taught me that sounds will not come up above an obstruction of this kind."

However, company officials were not discouraged and promised a new gesture later today, when they planned to send a man into the shaft with a stethescope in an attempt to catch any sounds that may be coming up the slate walls of the opening.

PROSPEROUS ignorance and selfishness will loathe Ford's five-day week plan, just as his employing newspaper competitors loathed and lied about Hearst, because he raised the pay of his men and made them do the same. Twenty-six years ago newspaper "drivers" unorganized, got from ten to fifteen dollars a week for a ten-hour day. Joseph Bannon, then a driver for Hearst, still with Hearst, now head of a powerful union, and earning as much as nine congressmen, organized the drivers' union, with Hearst's approval, in Hearst's office.

THOSE newspaper drivers now average more than ten dollars a day, many thousand a week added to the Hearst payroll, and other newspaper payrolls. But newspapers are more prosperous than ever and newspaper owners that hated Hearst for raising their payrolls with his own are reconciled. It has dawned upon them that the few big men can get only what the little men earn.

THE five-day week will come, and the day shorter than eight hours, as better machinery and better organization make long hours unnecessary.

Prosperity will increase for big and little men. Once a man was rich and happy when he had many human slaves working for him. Industrial intelligence will make it possible for all men to enjoy sufficient wealth, leisure and real happiness when all have machinery, slaves of steel, working for them.

THAT is in sight. The question: "How can human beings be persuaded to use increased leisure wisely," has not been answered.

FURNACE SPARKS CAUSE $4,000 RESIDENCE FIRE

Flames believed to have started by a spark from the furnace swept through the home of William G. Wood on Summit-st last night, causing damage to house and contents estimated at $4,000. The interior of the house was completely gutted.

Neither Mr. Wood or his wife were at home at the time the blaze was first noticed. A fire had been started in the furnace and it is thought that a spark thrown out ignited a pile of wood stacked near the coal bin.

Firemen from the Central station were summoned at 8:50. The flames had gained great headway, however, before the department was called.

Electric Engine Supplanting Steam.

The New York Central, which for years has been using electric motive power for the handling of its passenger service into and out of New York City, is soon to utilize electric engines for the hauling of its freight trains in the same territory.

Preparatory to the change, tests were recently made of the relative power of steam and electric engines. A regulation steam freight engine was coupled onto a train of 108 cars. It puffed and chugged, and with the utmost difficulty attained a speed of five miles an hour.

One of the big new electric locomotives was then attached to the same train—a new and larger design of electric engine than any heretofore seen in New York—and it hauled the load of 3,000 tons for 144 miles at a speed in excess of thirty-two miles an hour, and yet had both power, and hence speed, in reserve. After twelve hours of the most severe testing, officials of the road announced that the big electric locomotive had met every test in a manner most satisfactory, exceeding their most sanguine expectations. "It moved the line of box cars almost a mile in length around difficult curves so smoothly," says a report of the test, "that J. J. Rogers, the veteran engineer who piloted it, said it was 'easier than taking the Twentieth Century Limited out of Harmon.'"

The railroads of the country, in great part due to the backset they suffered during the war as the result of governmental operation and control, have not been in shape until the last two or three years to risk extensive improvements of such cost as the electrification of their lines would involve, but that has not estopped their recognition of the fact that it is cheaper, in the long run, to transmit power over a wire than to haul the materials for making it in a tender. Now that conditions show decided improvement and they once more have their heads above the sea of financial troubles which has long buffeted them, we may naturally anticipate a decided movement toward electric power. That its merits are many is manifest. If it has disadvantages, neither experimentation nor service has developed them.

Europe Pays Us Compliment.

Europe may speak of us as "Shylocks" and refer to our country as the "Land of Money Grabbers," but she pays us the highest tribute within her power and the greatest compliment she is able to bestow by copying as only business and industrial methods and doing her utmost to imitate them. The advances that we over here in America are accomplishing and makes and improvements over the methods and achievements of the Old world undoubtedly leaves a bitter taste in the European mouth, but she has been forced to it, and that she is endeavoring to assimilate our methods for her own is manifested by the many elaborate surveys of our business and industrial systems she has made and is still making.

In no field, perhaps, is this enforced respect for our achievements so marked as in that of industrial economics. For some time after the Great war, Europe was prone to hold the marked prestige we had gained in the industrial field largely due to the impetus our industries acquired during the war, but as the years have passed European industrialists have been forced to take a broader view. Our ability to continue to pay the highest wages known to all history and at the same time successfully compete with foreign manufacturers in their home markets has opened the eyes of European industrialists. They doubted our ability to do so as long as they could, but at last they have been forced to concede that our manufacturing methods are superior or our manufactures are superior and thus more desirable, or that our present position in the field of industry is due to a combination of the two. As a result of this change of front regarding American manufactures and the methods followed in producing them, European industrialists have been sending over their experts to study our way of doing things and European economists not only have given the reports of these experts the utmost consideration, but many of them have come to the United States to study our methods at first hand.

And this brings up a very odd situation. While Europe has been sending over her experts to study our business and industrial economics that she may adopt them, thus recognizing them as superior to her own, there is almost constant agitation in this country for additional governmental supervision of business and industry if not absolute government control. In other words, the agitators for more government in business would have us adopt the European plan of more government in business which European industrialism is doing its utmost to discard that it may be more nearly on an equality with industry in America. Europe is recognizing a fact, which champions of more government in business over here refuse to concede is a fact, that the business prosperity being enjoyed here in the United States is next to impossible in Europe where governmental supervision, governmental direction and paternalism generally in industry is an outstanding policy and in some countries is carried to the extreme.

One might assume that conditions in European industry today, compared with the conditions in industry in the United States, would cause the champions of additional governmental powers in business and industry to pause and think a bit; that they might recognize the fact that such prosperity as our industries enjoy under private management is not because of, but rather in spite of such governmental meddling as they are forced to suffer. But apparently they will not.

After all, it's largely a matter of viewpoint. In some lands cashiers are conducted as a means of raising revenue, in others lotteries are employed, but over here our preference is for prize-fights.

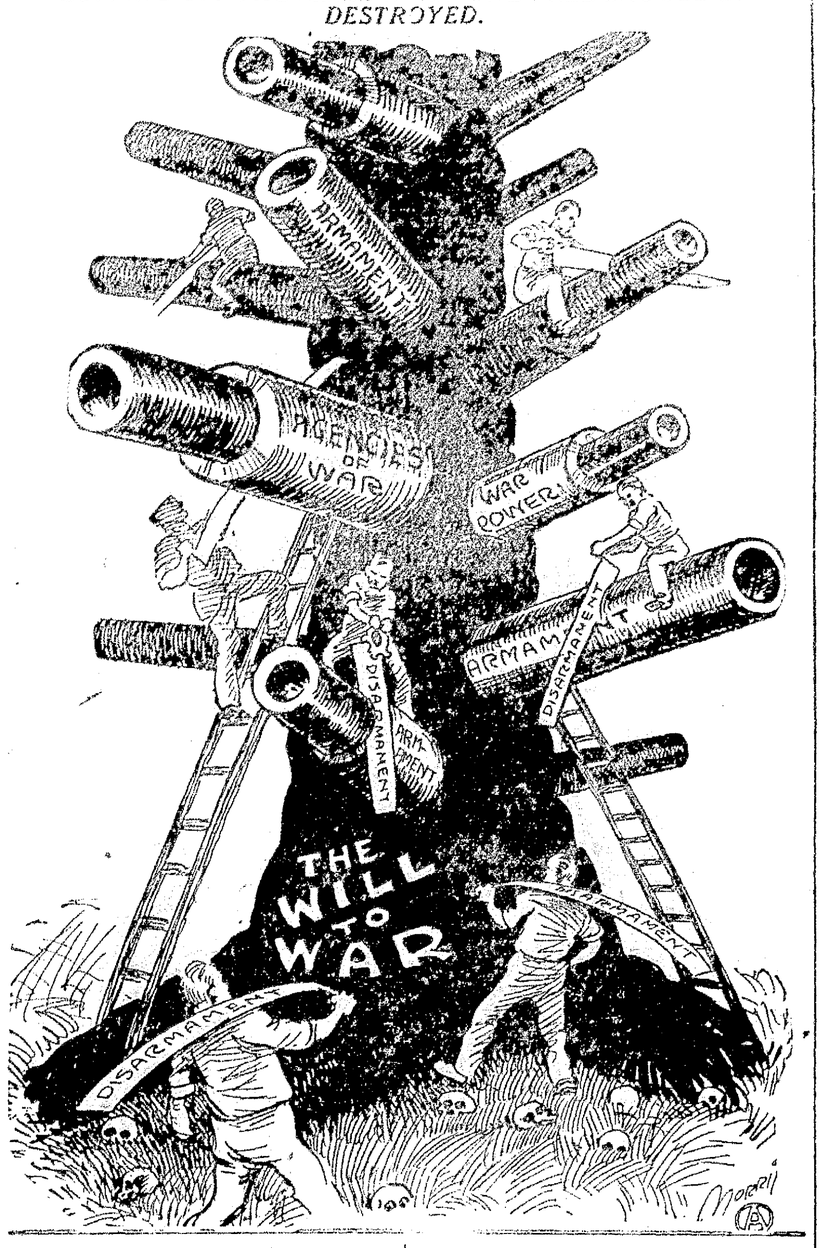
LOPPING OFF THE LIMBS WHEN THE TREE SHOULD BE DESTROYED.



Too Costly To Have Toothache.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Toothache is a real illness. You may have no temperature. You may be able to go about your affairs. But you can't be happy and you can't be efficient if you have an aching tooth. You feel sick; you look sick; you act sick. You are sick.

The proper treatment for toothache is not to have it.

This may sound foolish, but it isn't. You may not escape pneumonia or an automobile accident. Either one may be forced upon you. But you know how to escape the toothache. If you have it, it is because you chose to have it.

No matter how poor you are, you should not neglect your teeth. If you are poor you will be poorer when your teeth begin to ache. You won't be any good at your job and you will get "fired."

If you can't get the money any other way, save away from the movies for a month and use your savings to pay a dentist. It won't cost much if you begin your visits to the dental office before big cavities have formed or the gums have become diseased.

If you are poor and live in a modern community, you can get free dental service through the schools or the board of health. Every progressive locality has dental clinics.

If you are not so poor, you have no excuse for avoiding the dentist. You can afford to go, and you owe it to yourself to attend to your teeth.

If you have early, regular and scientific dental care you won't have the toothache. One way or another you can get such care if you choose to do so. If you don't get it, it is because you deliberately neglected to find relief.

In short, then, if you have toothache it is because you chose to have it.

One of the common things a doctor hears is this: "What have I ever done to be sent such suffering?"

A good many times the doctor can truthfully reply: "You did nothing. It isn't your fault."

But when a responsible, intelligent, grown-up, free moral agent inquires about the toothache: "Why am I made to suffer this way?"—there is but one answer: "You deliberately elected to have the toothache! It is your own fault!"

But if you have the toothache, it is "crying over spilled milk" to discuss the neglects of the past. The thing to do now is to get rid of the dreadful pain. The dentist has many remedies at hand besides pulling out the tooth. He may be able to correct the defect in speedy and comfortable fashion. See him at once.

We may paraphrase modern advertising by saying: "Don't envy good teeth, good-looking teeth, desirable teeth—have them."—Copyright, 1926

Poems That Live.

CARILLON.

In the ancient town of Bruges,
In the quaint old Flemish city,
As the evening shades descended,
Low and loud and sweetly blended,
Low at times and loud at times,
And changing like a poet's rhymes,
Rang the beautiful wild chimes
From the belfry in the market
Of the ancient town of Bruges.

But amid my broken slumbers
Still I heard those magic numbers,
As they loud proclaimed the flight
And stolen marches of the night;
Till their chimes in sweet collision
Mingled with each wandering vision,
Mingled with the fortune-telling
Gypsy-bands of dreams and fancies,
Which amid the waste expanses
Of the silent land of trances
Have their solitary dwelling.
All else seemed asleep in Bruges,
In the quaint old Flemish city.

And I thought how like these chimes
Are the poet's airy rhymes,
All his rhymes and roundelays,
His conceits and songs and ditties,
From the belfry of his brain,
Scattered downward, though in vain,
On the roofs and stones of cities!
For by night the drowsy ear
Under its curtains can not hear,
And by day men go their ways,
Hearing the music as they pass,
But deeming it no more, alas!
Than the hollow sound of brass.

Thus dreamed I, as by night I lay
In Bruges, at the Fleur-de-Ble,
Listening with a wild delight
To the chimes that, through the night,
Rang their changes from the belfry
Of that quaint old Flemish city.

The worst joke I heard today was told me by Irene Franklyn. You all remember "Red Head" and all those wonderful songs that she used to sing, and she has a voice as good now. She is a fellow-countryman of mine. Irene and I and Mary Garden and John McCormack, we are all in the same class. Well, here is the gag. They were all sitting at a party telling stories in London. Irene had to hard luck stories, and one fellow told the following:

"I am the unluckiest guy in the world. The other day I was in the big American department store in London. A fire broke out. Now where do you think my tough luck came in? Why, in the piano department."

Well, there was quite a snicker at the gag. But one Englishman didn't laugh. He looked up surprised at them and said: "Why, I didn't know there was a fire at that store."—Copyright, 1926.

Air of Mystery and Romance Surrounds Man in Hospital

CHARLES RUBENSTEIN, a stranger about whom there is an air of considerable mystery and romance, is convalescing at the City Hospital, where he was taken after being found in a semi-conscious condition on Oak-st last Saturday, and it is believed by local authorities that he will be able to continue on his journey to Pittsburgh within a few days.

Rubenstein, who says that he served in the World War as a soldier in the Italian army, and who bears four bullet wounds as evidence of the service, was found on the street by police and has since been in charge of Sanitary Officer Charles M. Tobin, who has supervision over the city's charity cases.

Believed Egyptian

Rubenstein, who is believed to be an Egyptian and is about 38 years of age, tells of having started on an automobile trip with three companions and of having left them when he became ill on their arrival in Marion.

He is subject to nervous attacks which render him helpless and he was in that condition when police discovered him lying on Oak-st. His physical disability is a result of shell shock sustained in the war, local authorities believe. He has two bullet wounds in his head, one in his back and another in his left leg.

Gets Pension

The stranger says that he has two children who live with his parents in Egypt. His wife died about two years ago. He states that he receives $50 monthly as war service compensation from the Italian government but that he sends this money to Egypt for the support of his children.

Rubenstein has obtained work in several cities during his travels in America but has been unable to remain employed because of his wrecked nerves and the attacks come upon him frequently as a consequence of his wounds and shell-shocked condition.

He has requested that he be provided with means for going on to Pittsburgh as soon as his condition is sufficiently improved. This request will be granted by Mr. Tobin and the expense, as well as the cost of keeping Rubenstein in the hospital here, will be paid from the city's relief funds.

German Financier Proves Hazy Witness: Going Back to Germany

New York, Sept. 28—Richard Merton, German financier and one of the principal witnesses in the graft conspiracy trial of Harry M. Daugherty and Thomas W. Miller, was recalled to the stand today in Federal District Court.

Merton, who came here as a government witness, previously had testified as to the manner in which he brought about the government approval in 1921 of the $7,000,000 claim of the American Metals Co. for property seized during the war.

He was recalled so as to enable the defense to cross-examine him and permit him to sail for Germany as soon as possible.

ficient value to keep assessments within the one-third limitation.

The solicitor's announcement is expected to prevent the filing of additional petitions for reduction of assessments. Several came before Council at recent metings but in each instance the members decided that the matter is one which should be taken into court and adjusted there in case any change in the assessments is warranted.

Action on the installation of several street lights and water service extensions was taken by council.

Pass Resolution

Resolutions authorizing the C. D. & M. Electric Light & Power Co. to install street lights at the intersection of Kierx-st and the alley between Oak and Prospect-sts and at the intersection of Grove and Wall-sts were adopted. A petition for a light on N. State-st between Fairview-st and Hecker-av was referred to the street light committee.

A resolution directing the Marion Water Co. to extend its lines to provide service for properties on Henry-st between Darius and Buckeye-sts was adopted and petitions for similar extensions on Waterloo-st from Bennett-st to Brown-av and on Florence-st from Davids-st to the second alley west of Davids, were referred to the city solicitor with instructions to prepare legislation necessary for granting the requests.

Ordinance Passed

An ordinance was adopted making an additional appropriation of $907.26 for operation of the city's sewage treatment plant during the remainder of this year. This represents the difference between the original appropriation and the revenue actually obtained from the tax levy. As the money could legally be used for no other purpose, amendment of the original appropriation ordinance was necessary to authorize its expenditure.

A petition for the construction of a sanitary and storm-water sewer on Fahey-st from Silver-st to the north line of lots Nos. 5,370 and 5,380 was referred to the solicitor for the preparation of necessary legislation.

May Use Stethescope

When your correspondent descended to this level, a miner called his attention to what are called tappings. The sounds emanate from the black chasm below and might well be echoes of the sledge hammers pounding in the shaft above. Despite the fact that trained ears might be able to differentiate between echoes and original sounds, no miner in the shaft has been found by your correspondent who will admit that he believes them to be tappings as announced early this morning by company officials.

"There may be tappings but I have not heard them," one veteran mine captain said after he had come from an all night vigil in the shaft. "I can't believe that tappings could be heard because of the fact that earth and rock lie between us and the men and my experience in the mines has taught me that sounds will not come up above an obstruction of this kind."

However, company officials were not discouraged and promised a new gesture later today, when they planned to send a man into the shaft with a stethescope in an attempt to catch any sounds that may be coming up the slate walls of the opening.

on breeding for the next generation of exploiters.

PROSPEROUS ignorance and selfishness will loathe Ford's five-day week plan, just as his employing newspaper competitors loathed and lied about Hearst, because he raised the pay of his men and made them do the same. Twenty-six years ago newspaper "drivers" unorganized, got from ten to fifteen dollars a week for a ten-hour day. Joseph Bannon, then a driver for Hearst, still with Hearst, now head of a powerful union, and earning as much as nine congressmen, organized the drivers' union, with Hearst's approval, in Hearst's office.

THOSE newspaper drivers now average more than ten dollars a day, many thousand a week added to the Hearst payroll, and other newspaper payrolls. But newspapers are more prosperous than ever and newspaper owners that hated Hearst for raising their payrolls with his own are reconciled. It has dawned upon them that the few big men can get only what the little men earn.

THE five-day week will come, and the day shorter than eight hours, as better machinery and better organization make long hours unnecessary.

Prosperity will increase for big and little men. Once a man was rich and happy when he had many human slaves working for him. Industrial intelligence will make it possible for all men to enjoy sufficient wealth, leisure and real happiness when all have machinery, slaves of steel, working for them.

THAT is in sight. The question: "How can human beings be persuaded to use increased leisure wisely," has not been answered.

Victor Dryer, a noble old French workman said truly: "We know that we must earn our bread by the sweat of our brow. But it has not been said that we must eat our bread with a breaking heart."

FURNACE SPARKS CAUSE $4,000 RESIDENCE FIRE

Flames believed to have started by a spark from the furnace swept through the home of William G. Wood on Summit-st last night, causing damage to house and contents estimated at $4,000. The interior of the home was completely gutted.

Neither Mr. Wood or his wife were at home at the time the blaze was first noticed. A fire had been started in the furnace and it is thought that a spark thrown out ignited a pile of wood stacked near the coal bin.

Firemen from the Central station were summoned at 8:30. The flames had gained great headway, however, before the department was called.

MILADY WEARS SHAWL IN WAYS GRANDMA NEVER DREAMED

GREAT grandmother surely never thought of wearing her shawl in the many ways the modern woman wears hers. It was merely used to drape her shoulders with as much grace as she was individually endowed. Now, however, milady is just as apt to wear her shawl for a whole dress or a negligee as the wrap for which it was originally intended.

And in the illustration above (left) it is used as a negligee, no less.

On the right is a sample of the well liked sports type of hat in a swagger white felt model. A black and white polka dotted silk scarf is worn with this hat.

The small, chic hat which refuses to be displaced in public favor by the larger models is illustrated in the center. This chapeau is made of black panne velvet and has a turned up brim allowing milady's eyes to be seen once more. A buckle of brilliants apparently holds the folds of the trimming in front.

Reporter Finds Waddel Ladies' Home Enveloped in Atmosphere of Happiness

An atmosphere of happiness and contentment envelopes the Waddel Ladies' Home, 1231 E. Center-st. A cozy living room and dainty, well lighted dining room and bedrooms make up the place of home. At present it is occupied by nine sweet little old ladies. One extra, one of them as "old" until one sees their so cheerful, so busy, during almost all their comfortable little home with as much vigor as anyone.

A rather chilly fall or winter day is an especially desirable time to pay the ladies a visit, for grouped about the open fire, sewing, reading and talking, they make a picture not easily forgotten. A summer day finds them equally attractive for they are to be seen on the broad veranda of the home or walking about in the neat little garden in the rear. In the summer however, many of them go visiting, spending several weeks or so with various relatives and friends, thus giving them pleasant reminiscences for the winter months.

Recreations

Their pleasures are similar to those [illegible] and church services on Sunday [illegible] in their own home or at one of the churches. This summer [illegible] the women enjoyed the Chautauqua. Elaborate plans arranged for their benefit the ladies deeply appreciated. All of them seem interested in newspapers, many like to write, and the majority read [illegible] a reading. The Bible is the most [illegible] book to be found in the home. Various little books of meditations and various magazines which are sent to the home are also read. Among the magazines to be seen [illegible] on the large center table are the Ladies' Home Journal, American, Woman's Home Companion, Popular Monthly, missionary magazines and a number of church papers. Religious books and papers are also very popular there.

Visiting days are Tuesday and Thursday according to rule, but every day in [illegible] personal practice. No [illegible] from the home doors for [illegible] in always welcome, the [illegible] to assume their friends. [illegible] pany. And a great many [illegible] to evidence, showing that [illegible] pastime.

Meal Schedule

The women prefer regular meals, breakfast at 7 o'clock, [illegible] 11:30 and supper at 5. [illegible] retiring varies, but is usually 10 o'clock.

Each of the women is especially happy when busy tending [illegible] telephone or nursing a [illegible] There are no rules regarding the home however, for each [illegible] she is able and cares to do.

One of the most interesting [illegible] ers and certainly the principal members of the home is Mrs. [illegible] lovable, dainty, refreshing [illegible] lady of 92. She will celebrate [illegible] ninety-second birthday anniversary [illegible] month. Mrs. Cox is especially [illegible] for her implicit faith in the [illegible] the Almighty. Upon all of [illegible] Mrs. Cox impresses the goodness [illegible] God, expressing her own thanks [illegible] many kindness to her. She [illegible] proud of and even more thankful [illegible] having been permitted to reach [illegible] age. She has a number of [illegible] prayers and poems of which she is [illegible] tensely fond and with which she [illegible] tains her visitors.

The "fairy godmother" of the home is Mrs. Alice Waddel Hoover, upon whose capable shoulders rests the [illegible] den and pleasure of managing the home. Mrs. Hoover is loved and respected by all members of the home and this love and respect she returns with the many kindnesses. Mrs. Myrtle Blinn, her assistant, is also a valuable addition to the happiness and comfort of the home.

"I don't know. I never saw him before—don't even know his name," he explained, with some perturbation, wondering whether she was going to faint.

She withdrew a little and in her face he read suspicion and something that looked like fright. "Then why—Who are you?"

"My name's Brazenose. P. G. Brazenose."

She gave him another penetrating glance and he thought for a moment that she recognized the name, but the puzzled frown between her eyes deepened as she said: "Oh! . . . Well?"

"My father is Grover Brazenose, Manufactures looms. I'd been at the factory, over in Jersey, and at the ferry coming back, this man spoke to me. Said he'd been called West suddenly and would have to hustle to catch his train. And as he couldn't reach you by phone or messenger boy, he asked me to come and tell you. That's all I know about him. He was in such a hurry that he didn't even give me his name—or yours, either."

At this the distress that he fancied might be fright came back into her face. "What sort of man was he?" she asked quickly. "What did he look like?"

He was about five feet, ten. Dark hair, light gray eyes, cleanshaven. Muscular chap."

She nodded and it seemed to him that she was slightly relieved.

"But—didn't he even send me a note?"

"No. He acted as if he was rattled about something. But he said you might be seriously inconvenienced if he didn't get word to you."

"That was thoughtful of him," she remarked dryly. "Did he tell you where he was going?"

"No. He said something had just happened that called him West immediately on important business."

"Oh, of course . . . business . . ." Her lips took a satirical curve.

"He said he'd be back within a few days and he wants you to let him know where you are, and on no account to take any action until you hear from him. He told me to say that what you are planning is absolutely impossible and might have very serious consequences."

"Hm. Yes, I see. Well—thank you for coming."

She began walking on absently, through a door and into the great waiting room, and Piggy, though knowing himself dismissed, kept pace with her. The color had not returned to her face he hesitated to leave her alone.

"Isn't there something else I can do?" he suggested. "Perhaps telephone to your friends?"

"There's nobody—in this country."

"Then may I take you to your hotel? Or to your train, if you're going on?"

She shook her head, apparently oblivious of his presence, though his voice penetrated the haze through which she seemed to move. This was a novel experience to Piggy Brazenose, of whose sculpturesque proportions and magnetic personality most madiens were too obliviously aware. It encouraged him to persist.

"I don't want to seem officious," he said awkwardly, "but I don't like to leave you until— You look as if you might faint."

"I never faint. But—I don't know quite what to do."

"I am at your service, if you'll let me do whatever it was the other man was going to do."

Despite the predicament in which she was caught, she gave him a humorous glance through the veil which she had lowered again.

"He was going to marry me."

"Marry you!"

"Today."

"He was going to marry you! And he didn't show up?"

She made a little gesture with her hand. "Oh, well, there may be good reasons for that."

"But—but—why, the chap didn't look like a rotter!"

"He isn't. He— I can't explain, but probably he had a good reason."

"But—good Lord!" Piggy stammered in wrath and embarrassment. "Look here, let me take you to a hotel—"

"I can't go to a hotel," she said dully, pausing near the Information Desk and looking about at the faces in the crowd. He wondered whether she was still hoping to see the man who had not come. Giving the porter a coin which she had held in her hand, she dismissed him with a nod and turned again to Piggy, saying more decisively: "Thank you. You've been very kind. I won't trouble you any more."

OHIO WESLEYAN SHOWS LARGEST ENROLLMENT

Delaware, Sept. 28—Ohio Wesleyan has this year, in spite of efforts to limit its student body, the largest enrollment on record. A final check by T. E. Steckel, register, shows a registration this week of 1,902.

The number of new freshmen men is 303, the largest number ever enrolled. The freshmen women were limited to 275, admission to more than 250 applicants being refused because of the lack of adequate housing facilities.

Compared with last year, the total enrollment shows an increase of 26. There are also this year 49 more men and 23 less women in the student body than last.

COOPER ON RADIO

Columbus—Addresses by Myers Y. Cooper, Cincinnati, Republican candidate for governor of Ohio, and U. S. Senator Frank B. Willis, Republican, seeking re-election, will be radiocast from WAIU, the American Insurance Company's station here, Wednesday night, according to announcement made at Republican state campaign headquarters.

Members of the Buckeye Republican Glee Club, of Columbus, also will spend 10 minutes before the microphone.

The Easiest Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.—Adv.

HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE

Quicksands of Love

BY ADELE GARRISON

PRETENDS CABLE IS TRIVIAL

IF it were indeed a dream which I had heard from my father's lips as I read Hugh Grantland's queer cablegram to him over the telephone, he took immediate steps to disguise the fact. In [illegible] tones he asked me to read the message again to him, when he should have secured paper and pencil, adding with an amused tolerance which was admirably well simulated if it were not genuine:

"This is code, of course. That chap has a perfect passion for them. I believe if he were let alone, he'd order his meals and pay his bills with the aid of hieroglyphic characters. I wonder what particular first edition he wishes me to chase up this time?"

He was overdoing it, I decided as I read the cablegram to him the second time, repeating some of the jumbled words of the queer message until my father was satisfied that he had every one correctly. It was not a matter of first editions—this farrago which I was reading, and which I was sure my father understood perfectly, and was only having me repeat because he wished to camouflage the real importance of it.

It was not within my province to question his decision. I knew that, but could not help a quavering query as I finished the reading.

"This does not mean any bad news for you, does it Father?"

"Bless you, no!" His denial was a thought too explosive, I feared. "I can't tell exactly what it is until I look it up, but it's nothing to worry over. I'm sure. By the way, are you terribly busy, too much so to run around a spell?"

Something instantly clicked back the truthful answer that I was quite ready for.

"No, sir!" I said hearty. "Why?"

"Because I was run up to see you a day or two. I am getting a bit lonely for a sight of all of you, and I thought you and I might venture to run away for one of our old time spells."

I can think of nothing I'd like better," I told him. When he had hung up the receiver, I was inexpressibly depressed, for I could not rid myself of the fancy that even this projected visit of his had been decided upon in the minutes following my first reading of the cablegram.

Dicky looked at me keenly.

"What's the matter, old dear?" he asked with real concern in his tones. "Is there bad news?"

"Father says the message is a trivial one," I returned. "But I can't help feeling—"

"Oh! you and your hunches!" Dicky retorted roughly, but I realized the kindness behind the bluff words. "If all the things had gone wrong that your premonitions predicted there wouldn't be a single member of the family or all our acquaintances left intact."

I laughed, involuntarily, as he meant me to do, and he put another question.

"The code didn't contain any information as to Grantland's proposed movements, did it?"

"I don't know," I said. You see, Father didn't explain the message to me. He simply wrote it down, saying he would decipher it later."

"You're right there," Dicky said, suddenly grave. "I can't imagine your father needing to run to a code book. But there's no use speculating about it. Put the thing up and forget about it."

But the last part of his well meant advice was something I could not follow.

FEELING LOTS BETTER NOW

Writes Ethel May Snider Who Used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Hartford City, Ind.—Doing housework and taking care of a sick woman proved to be too much for Ethel May Snider, R. R. 1 of Hartford City, until she started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Overwork had so undermined her health that she had to give up all outside work, and when she saw this medicine advertised in the "Star" and other papers, she went to a druggist and got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She took it regularly, was greatly benefited and now feels very much better.

Ethel May Snider's experience is similar to that of thousands of other women in all walks of life, who have sent testimonials to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass.

From Maine to California, from Wisconsin to Texas, and from Nebraska to Florida letters are received every day from grateful women who say the Vegetable Compound has helped to restore their health.

Cleveland Finishes Second in American League Race

Manager Speaker Gives Two Stars Opportunity to Show in Last Game of Schedule

Fans Are Happy When George Uhle and George Burns Triumph Over Philadelphia, 5 to 4, in Final Game

It seems peculiarly fitting that the two greatest players on the Indian roster should have wound up the season at Dunn field, Cleveland, Monday afternoon by carrying their mates to a sure second place in the standing, the highest the Indians have finished since 1921.

George Uhle and George Burns, one of whom is almost certain to be named the most valuable player in the league this season, gave the Tribers a 5 to 4 victory over the Athletics Monday afternoon in the year's league finale for this year, assuring them of second place no matter how the Athletics fare with the Senators in their series.

It was Uhle of the great right arm who hurled the full game, making it his twenty-seventh victory of the season and putting him far ahead of the field in games won.

'Twas Burns All Way

But it was Burns of two-base fame who drove in the winning run in the last half of the ninth with a ripping single over second base.

It was on the whole, virtually a "Burns day." The veteran first baseman drove in every one of the five runs the Clevelanders collected. He got three hits out of five times at bat, and one of them was his sixty-fourth double of the season.

The game was no easy one for the Tribers to take. In fact, the handful of fans who braved the chill breezes and misty rain to see the year's final battle were given a game as full of tight spots and thrills as any this season.

Uhle Fans Six

Uhle struck out six men, but allowed nine hits and was in a lot of hot water. Great support, particularly by Joe Sewell, saved him plenty of embarrassment. Joe was on the ground, high in the air, everywhere for a flock of hard hit balls.

Connie Mack shifted his pitchers at little or no provocation. Lefty Grove started, but twirled only one inning. Old Jack Quinn went along for three more and Sam Gray tossed the last five.

The Indians opened with two runs off Grove in the first. Jamie walked, Spurgeon singled, Speake went out, then Burns drove in both men on base with a single to center.

The A's got one in the second when Simmons tripled and Poole's sacrifice fly brought him in. The Tribe matched it in the third when Speaker walked and Burn's sixty-fourth double scored him.

Rice, Philadelphia rookie, made his debut against Boston and it was a wow.

His triple accounted for two runs and enabled the slow town boys to down the Braves, 5 to 4.

CENTRAL OHIO ATHLETIC MEN ELECT OFFICERS

Fourteen Charter Members in Central Ohio Officials' Association

Marion City and County athletic officials organized Monday night at their weekly meeting at the Marion Steam Shovel Company's offices by electing Francis Bacon, a local Ohio Conference official, president; Douglas Torrance, vice president; Marion Hinklin, secretary; and R. Robbins, treasurer. This week's meeting was attended by 14 local men interested in better officiating at athletic games for the benefit of all those concerned. For that purpose they have deemed it best to organize the same as officials are doing in other sections of the country.

Central Ohio Officials Association was the name selected for the local organization which was organized with 14 charter members as follows: President Bacon, Vice President Torrance, Secretary Hinklin, Treasurer Robbins, Bernard Flanigan, John H. Owens, Harold Rarcher, Clifford L. Ward, Frank Steffen, Coach Allen, "Bally" Compton, E. Paul Huffman, N. G. Irwin, P. H. Rea and Charles W. Harrison.

The purpose of the organization is to effect better officiating through organized effort which will be possible by weekly meetings and discussions which will be attended by all members of the organization, according to the constitution which was made up in part at last night's meeting.

The local officials are expecting to start work on basketball soon. In the meantime they will make an attempt to better their officiating in football and other sports.

By-laws and the constitution will be adopted at next week's meeting which is scheduled to be held Monday night.

BIG MEN IN FOREGROUND OF WORLD'S SERIES

The New York Yankees' stadium, seating 70,000 fans, is the scene of the first two games of the world series, Saturday and Sunday. Rogers Hornsby, who led the St. Louis Cardinals to their first league pennant, wants to give his town its first world championship. Huggins, after leading the Yankees in the most surprising sport an American League team ever made, also wants to cop. Ruth reformed, and mainspring of the New York club, hopes to make this his best world's series appearance.

Freshmen are Forgetting High School Yells and Conference Starts Work

Case Goes to Akron, Young Kenyon Visits Dayton, Heidelberg Plays Mt. Union, Baldwin-Wallace Meets Western Reserve in Fifth City; Other Big Games

Cleveland, Sept. 28—Now that the freshmen in the Ohio colleges have forgotten enough of their high school yells to remember the newly learned college cheers, the Ohio Conference football season is on in earnest.

Even the ancient Italian who sells chrysanthemums has selected his post and the squads' new moleskins are beginning to look drab. While prophetic our crucial games still are in the offing, there still are some good looking struggles carded for this coming Saturday.

Case, having Fletcherized Heidelberg, is prepared to deflate the Akron team at Akron. The blue and gold from the Rubber City took an easy workout against Defiance and is ready for the diversified attack, which will be Case's strong championship claim.

The brown and white plans to carry the ball and is working on the good offensive - best - defensive - basis. But Akron with a 14-7 win over the brown and white last year, is still licking its gridiron chops.

In taking on Dayton, the new member of the conference, Kenyon is biting off a big chunk for the league infant is a powerful one and it will take all the collective skill and strength of the Episcopalians to defeat Dayton on the latter's home field.

After dropping the first game to Case, Heidelberg wanders over to Alliance to do battle with Mount Union. Coach Thorpe's gang is as formidable as it was last season, when it dropped only two games to Miami and Wooster and held the unbeaten Oberlin eleven to a scoreless tie. Heidelberg's big chance is holding the Mounts to a low score.

It took Baldwin Wallace three games to get started last year and it dropped all three. Then it trounced Heidelberg, Hiram, Akron, Otterbein and Western Reserve in rapid succession. This year, after losing a lone touchdown affair to Oberlin, last week, the Berea squad is ready for the winning end and anticipates its first conquest over Western Reserve at Cleveland.

The Pioneers, under their new coach, the famed Gordon Locke, of Iowa, are still in the formative stage and this will be the first test for them. It's an open guess with the visitors slightly the favorite.

Muskingum vs. Hiram is scheduled for Hiram with the former expected to win. Its been several years since the cherry and blue has registered a victory, although it achieved three tie games in 1925 but Muskingum was one of the victors, the Magenta swamping Hiram 45-7. This year isn't likely to see so large a score, but the ultimate result will be about the same.

Held to a scoreless tie by Capitol, Denison needs a victory over Ohio Northern to reinstate its lost laurels. They play at Granville, and, despite the pre-season dope, it looks rather lean for the big red.

At Oxford, the perennial champion, Ohio Wesleyan, meets Miami. It's a cruel time to send the Lone team against the Methodists, even though last week's Wesleyan performance Ohio league eleven is an easy [illegible] wasn't so awe-inspiring. However, Coach Gardner always has the power [illegible] somewhat sort of a running [illegible] and a capable defense and there are no indications that this is an off [illegible]

At Cincinnati, the Bearcats play Otterbein and should triumph. Nothing was shown by the Westerville team in its game last week, but it will take the united efforts of the United Brethren to ward off the annual Cincinnati rushing game.

Non-Conference Games

Chief among the non-conference games is the Ohio State-Wittenberg melee at Columbus. The Lutherans, in supplanting Ohio Wesleyan as the season starter for the Buckeyes, will make every effort to score, but be satisfied with that. Ohio will take a huge squad workout, but it's doubtful if Coaches Wilce, Oberlander and Williams will let the score go to more than a few touchdowns.

Wooster plays Ashland at Wooster. Oberlin takes on Marietta at Oberlin and St. Xavier meets Transylvania—Kentucky—at Cincinnati in the other non-conference games. In each, the Ohio league eleven is an easy [illegible]

Cuticura Heals Eczema On Child's Head and Body

"Our little girl had a breaking out of eczema when she was three months old. It started with a rash on her head and spread to her body. The irritation caused her to scratch, and scratching caused eruptions which later scaled over. Her hair was thin and lifeless, and her clothing aggravated the breaking out, causing her to cry. She was very fretful and could not sleep. The trouble lasted until she was four years old.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. After using it I purchased more, which healed her." (Signed) Mrs. Cora Crider, Rt. 1, Brink Haven, Ohio.

Daily use of Cuticura Soap, with touches of Cuticura Ointment now and then, keeps the skin fresh, smooth and clear. Cuticura Talcum also is ideal for the skin.

Hornsby in Great

... Hornsby has become the ... man on the far bank of the Mississippi while our Mr. Huggins, meantime, was permitted to go Lenox without apparent regret to seek his fortune in the great city.

Before he departed, however, he turned his attention to Hornsby and, in a moment of weakness, changed the young man's batting stance and made possibly the greatest right hand hitter of all the ages. Anyhow, he isn't the worst and it would be sardonic fate if Hornsby's hits proved the undoing of the Yankees, managed into four pennants by the afore-mentioned Huggins, of the bright, cheery and winning ways. Mr. Huggins probably would laugh heartily—as soon as he got around to it.

The writer likes the Huggins against Hornsby equation equally as well as that featuring Hornsby and Ruth exchanging intermittent base hits. In the first place, Huggins and Hornsby are radical opposites, yet both won pennants with ball clubs of considerable similarity.

Huggins Is Student

Huggins is pensive where Hornsby is volatile. Huggins is a caustic when he thinks he can get away with it; Hornsby whether he thinks he can or not. Usually he can and does. Huggins has been called the student. He does most of his thinking well in advance, and, if this fails him, he depends largely upon his noble athletes to roll their own. Hornsby runs his club from the ball field and calls them as they come.

Although the clubs arrive at the given point through the same processes—hitting and pitching—the two teams reflect the mannerism of their managers by their attitude on the field. The Cards from one of those magpie ball clubs, chattering and gibbering their way through nine innings. The Yanks are almost voiceless.

This outward show of ambition makes the Cards look the part of the better outfit, as, indeed, the writer hopefully thinks they are. He would continue to think so if the Cardinals were as silent as the palate in a tongue sandwich.

ENGINEER AT LORAIN SHOVEL PLANT RELATES EXPERIENCE

He Thanks Tepee Herb Tonic For Relieving Him of Stomach Trouble

Thomas E. Graver, 118 East 32nd street, Lorain, Ohio, is employed as a stationary engineer at the Thew Shovel Works.

In relating his experience with Tepee Herb Tonic, he says: "I had a lot of trouble with my stomach. Everything I ate soured and I frequently had a bad nauseating taste in my mouth.

Ever since I had the influenza a few months ago I haven't felt like myself.

"My work as an engineer at the Shovel works tired me out. I work nights and when I came home in the mornings I felt so weak and tired I could hardly drag one foot after the other.

"I met a friend who lives down at Grafton, 'Tom,' he said, 'What's the matter with you, are you sick?' 'Yes,' I said, and I told him how I felt.

"Try Tepee Herb Tonic, it fixed up my stomach," he said. I did so and now I am so pleased with the way the medicine helped me that I do not hesitate to publicly recommend it.

"I have a good appetite and my food does not distress me as it did before. I sleep soundly and my bowels are regular.

"I can do more work than I could before I took Tepee Herb Tonic and I do not feel all tired out like I did."

If you don't feel good try Tepee Herb Tonic. It has helped others and it will also help you.

Tepee Herb Tonic may be had in Marion at Bradley's, Henney & Coop er's, Wm. M. Stump's, Bartlett's and all drug stores, Richwood, H. D. Kyle. —Adv.

Impartial critics call him the best amateur boxer produced in eastern institutions in recent years.

STATE OFFICER BEGINS SURVEY AT COURTHOUSE

Examiner H. W. Riley Starts Review of County Records Here Today

H. W. Riley, of this city, state examiner, today began work among the various offices of the courthouse here.

The examination and check-up of the offices is held every two years.

Mr. Riley arrived in Marion last week from Bowling Green, the county seat of Wood County, where he has completed the examination of the court house of that county.

It was originally planned that the examiner should visit the offices of Hardin County before coming to this city but arrangements were made so that Mr. Riley might remain at his home in Marion during the winter and carry on Common Pleas Court for a divorce from Mildred L. Dennison. The couple were married on March 12, 1922, and have two children.

Mr. Dennison asserts that on Aug 2, 1926, his wife left their home, taking the two children with her. At the same hour, he declares, a farmhand in his employ left the home. Neither the farmhand or Mrs. Dennison have been seen since that line, the husband claims.

Mr. Dennison asks for a divorce, custody of the minor children, and requests that his wife be barred of all dower right in his property.

Attorney J. H. Eymon Adds to Laurels as Safe Expert

J. H. EYMON, local attorney, added to his laurels as a safe expert Monday when he opened the safe at the office of the Pure Oil Co., on W. Center St., after the handle and combination had been tampered had there. The feat was accomplished by Mr. Eymon about 5 o'clock Monday evening after working most of the day at the intricate undertaking.

Many men it was thought that it would be necessary to burn the door of the safe open but the plan was abandoned and Mr. Eymon finally succeeded in turning the trick by manipulating the combination.

Uses Screw Driver

Only about an eighth or an inch of the dial stem remained and it was this tiny object which provided Mr. Eymon with a basis for operations. By filing a slot in the stem he was enabled to operate the combination with a screw driver.

Mr. Eymon has been summoned to numerous local offices and other places of business to remedy difficulties which have been developed was also found the unopened letter which would have been the safe. H. R. Talbott, Marion manager of the Pure Oil Co., said he did.

Business persons of Marion are to be given an opportunity during the fall and winter to take a course in the advanced principles in accounting through the Extension Department of the College of Commerce and Journalism of Ohio State University, according to information received today from Thomas L. Kibler, director of the department.

Arrangements have been made to hold the classes each Tuesday night at the Harding High school, starting October 4, at which time students are to register.

Mr. William H. Bamberg, professor of Northwestern University and a candidate for the degree of doctor of philosophy at Ohio State University, will have charge of the classes. All I said was, "Aw, that's what you say."

A fella can't talk back much to a girl, but Youngbs said girls were worse than boys because some of them never went bathing. Then Peanuts grabbed Hopper's hat and went to run, and I put out my foot and he went on his neck, and Nibs grabbed my hat and ran around the corner of the school and met our teacher so hard she sot down. She was coming around the corner to find out what we were doing and tell us to stop, and Nibs has got to stay in at recess the rest of the week.

I was home before supper but I was out in the barn for fear I would be made to take care of Annabelle Lee, and my mother was so busy she pinned Annabelle Lee's dress to the table cloth whilst she was working over the stove, and Annabelle Lee is stronger than my mother thought she was, and so she had to get a lot of supper over again. I got blamed because I was not there. I think my mother was to blame.

Uncle Wiggily and His Friends

...upon a time Uncle Wiggily ... from his hollow stump ... to look for an adventure, and ... hold the end of the front ... swinging on the gate a ...

... minute, please, Daddicums, ... you."

... looked back and saw ... the little orphan rabbit ... toward him.

By this time Baby Bunty had caught up to her "Daddicums," as she sometimes called him, though, really, he was not her uncle by adoption, so to speak. But Mr. Longears actually had forty-seven little bunnys and girls who could properly call him father or "Daddicums."

"Where are you going?" asked Baby Bunty, who took turns living at the homes of her different friends in Woodland near the Orange Ice Mountains.

"Just adventuring," replied the rabbit uncle. "There is no telling where I may have to go, nor what I shall see, nor yet what will happen."

"That's jolly! Quite top hole, old dear and all that sort of thing," chirped the bunny child, speaking like an English rabbit. "Toddle on, old fellow-fafer!" she added.

So Uncle Wiggily toddled on and Baby Bunty toddled with him until, after a while, they saw on the other side of the path a very rich and stylish looking pig, walking along under an orange colored silk sun umbrella, and her dress was black in color.

"Oh, dear!" sighed Baby Bunty, just as Uncle Wiggily was going to give three cheers for Princeton and ask what the football score was. "Oh, dear, isn't it dreadful to be poor!"

"What's the matter now?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Why, just see that rich pig lady with a lovely umbrella and we have none and the sun is so hot," said Baby. "Why can't we have an umbrella to hold over us when we walk, Uncle Wiggily?"

"Why we can have one," spoke the kind gentleman. Then, going to the side of the path, he picked first a big leaf for Baby Bunty and one for himself. "There you are!" said Mr. Longears. "Hold that big green leaf over your head, Bunty, and you'll have as fine a sun umbrella as heart could wish."

"Oh, this is stunning! Quite ripping," exclaimed Bunty, still prancing along. And she held the umbrella leaf over her head and Uncle Wiggily did the same and they walked along as stylishly as the rich, fat lady pig, who was no relation to jolly, fat old-fashioned Mrs. Twisty-tail, I must tell you.

The rich pig lady, seeing Uncle Wiggily and Baby Bunty with murdock leaf sun umbrella, tilted her nose higher than before and she said, sniffing like, and very distinctly:

"Copy cats! Copy cats!"

"Oh, did you hear what she called us, Daddicums?" whispered Bunty.

"Hush, my dear! Never mind," said Mr. Longears.

And just then it began to rain very hard and the wind blew a gale, and it turned the orange silk umbrella of the lady pig inside out and wet her black dress. The wind also slashed to ribbons the burdock leaf umbrella of Uncle Wiggily and Baby Bunty.

"But we don't need to worry about that!" said Mr. Longears. "There are more burdock leaves where we picked the first ones," and he pulled off two more large ones and he and Bunty walked along under them as safe from the rain, which was not so furious now, as they had been safe from the sun before.

Why can't we have an umbrella?

The rich pig lady looked at her ruined orange silk umbrella and then, very humbly she said:

"I am sorry I called you copy cats. May I have one of your green umbrellas?"

"With pleasure, madam!" answered Uncle Wiggily with a low and polite bow of his pink, twinkling nose. Then he picked another leaf for the pig lady who walked home with it over her head and her dress didn't get so very wet after all.

And if the pussy cat doesn't whirl around after its tail so fast that she turns into a hoop, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's bunch of beets.

At 20, one is romantic in the present; at 40, in the past, and the romance seems more exalted.

RAISE IN MILK PRICE IS SEEN IN CLEVELAND

Unsettled Weather Conditions Blamed for One-Cent Per Quart Increase

Cleveland, Sept. 28—Officials of the Ohio Farmers' Cooperative Milk Association were conferring here today with dairy producers relative to a probable raise in the retail price of milk, R. W. Stone, manager of the association announced.

Unsettled weather conditions that have harrassed the green corn crop and have retarded silage were blamed for the one cent per quart increase. The association, in order to fill Cleveland orders has resorted to Detroit and Toledo as a supply source. Strong said, but similar conditions were found to exist there.

Leading retailers indicated that a one cent per quart increase proposed by the producers will probably be passed along to consumers. The present retail price is 14 cents a quart in Cleveland.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Peaches were scarce in Marion markets today. The new supply expected late today will probably have a higher price attached, according to predictions of local dealers.

Lemon Free peaches are now quoted higher in price than other varieties, retailing at $2.50 a bushel. Other varieties are selling at $1.75 and $2.

Vegetables of all kinds were plentiful in local provision houses today. Prices remained steady despite the increase in supply.

Lima beans continued to sell at 50 cents a quart, cabbage retailed at three cents a pound, sweet potatoes sold at five cents a pound and six pounds for 25 cents, and head lettuce brought 10 cents a pound.

Sweet Corn

Although far from plentiful, sweet corn in Marion markets today was selling at 15 and 20 cents a dozen. New homegrown peas retailed at 10 cents a pound.

Oysters were again plentiful today after a slump in supply yesterday. They continued to sell at 60 and 65 cents a quart.

Few plums of any nature were on display in Marion while the demand for the fruit increased. Pears were selling at $2 a bushel in some fruit houses

STOCK MOVEMENT TODAY REPRESENTS RECOVERY

Slight Price Raise Contested Vigorously by Professional Bearish Faction

New York, Sept. 28—Railroad stocks steady; industrial stocks irregular; domestic bonds steady; foreign bonds fairly steady; call money 5¼ per cent; grain firm; copper steady; oil reactionary; cotton reactionary; rubber steady; sugar steady; pig iron firm; foreign exchange irregular.

New York, Sept. 28—Movements of stock prices today represented little more than the inevitable recovery of speculative leaders which had been sold to a standstill by the bearish professionals in the preceding week or 10 days.

The professionals hardly noticed the fact that brokers' loans had been reduced $58,000,000 in the last week, and that the call loan renewal rate had been marked down to 5 1-2 per cent, coincidentally with the bank preparations for heavy monthly and quarterly payments beginning Friday. The banks called only a moderate volume of funds, but the outside banks were not contributors to the speculative funds, having greater need for their loanable money at home.

DISCOVERY OF OIL EXCITES ILLINOIS TOWN

Jacksonville, Ill., Sept. 28—Oil! This magic word is on the lips of every man in Morgan county, following the successful bringing in of a well north of this city. The well is located on the farm of O. F. Conklin. Paul C. Irwin, veteran oil man, is the prime mover back of the project and he stuck to his task of promoting and drilling the well despite the discouragement of business men of this county.

Recently natural gas in tremendous quantities was found near this city, the two forming links in what may prove a broad belt for oil and gas operations.

The well, it is estimated, will produce 25 barrels of oil per day. Some estimate that the output will be double this figure.

CONNECT HUNGARY RIVERS WITH NAVIGABLE CANAL

Budapest, Sept. 28—A navigable canal connecting the Danube and the River Theiss, which runs through the richest agricultural district of Hungary, will be built this year by a group of American and English financiers. The canal will cost about two million dollars but will reduce transportation costs of the huge Hungarian grain crops about thirty per cent.

The canal will be built from Szolnok to the Danube. At the present time most of the Theiss is too shallow for navigation but as it is lower than the Danube, the canal will allow enough water to flow into the smaller river to make float river craft. The canal also will drain a large section of land.

Signor Mussolini has recently ordered the restoration of the Villa Napoleone, which was the home of Napoleon during his exile in Elba. The villa once mantained an extensive Napoleonic museum, collected by Prince Demidoff, husband of Mathilde Bonaparte.

THIS SEASON'S GOWNS ARE LOVELIER THAN EVER

IN looking over the collections of fall and winter frocks one is firmly convinced that never before in Fashion's history were there so many lovely things displayed.

Two of the most alluring gowns are pictured above. At the left is a dinner gown with a bouffant bias skirt with scalloped edge. The skirt trimming is put on in vertical bands of crystal and black stones. The tight fitting bodice is covered with this trimming. A large rose placed low on the skirt gives a final bit of chic to the gown.

On the right is a charming tea-gown with dull gold lace coat over a pale blue satin slip. The Salome belt is an interesting detail of this gown. It is composed of beads and colored stones with a pendant down the front.

In the center of the picture is one of the smart little hats that have found favor this fall. It is fashioned of figured velvet with a simple trimming of narrow ribbon—a pretty and girlish model which avoids extremes and still has style.

AUSTRALIA LOWERS RATE ON SHIPPING FOR U. S.

Washington, Sept. 28—In an attempt to increase its foreign trade with the United States, Australia has reduced her freight rates on cargoes shipped to American ports, it was announced today by the Department of Commerce.

The reductions, average on some cargoes as much as ten percent, were applied to all merchandise lifted at Australian ports. The purpose of the slash, it was said, was to improve shipping trade to Canadian ports as well as the United States.

POSTAGE STAMP ADS START LONDON STORM

London, Sept. 28—A storm in a tea-cup has arisen in England following the decision of the postal authorities to use the letter franking machines for advertising purposes.

Prominent business men point out that it would be harmful to their interests if, for instance, one of their catalogs advertising their products, was to arrive bearing a postmark advocating a rival firm's wares.

SINK TEST WELL IN PATTERSON FIELD

Attempting To Locate Oil In Gas Producing Section of Hardin County

Kenton, Sept. 28—A test well to determine whether or not oil is contained in the large gas producing area near Patterson, north of Kenton, is now being put down on the William Kopp farm. Bert Sheldon, Drake driller, is in charge of operations.

Numerous gas wells have been sunk in the territory and have been producing for the past thirty-five years. Belief was expressed by veterans oil men that the territory contains oil. Results of the test are eagerly being watched.

CHORAL ORGANIZATION PLANNED AT NORTHERN

Dean of Music Arranging for Presentation of Oratorio, 'Messiah,' During Holidays

Kenton, Sept. 28—A choral society with approximately two hundred voices and an orchestra of thirty pieces, is now being planned by Mark Evans, dean of the College of Music at Ohio Northern University, according to reports. Musicians of both the school and the community surrounding Ada are to be enrolled.

Following a series of conferences with Dean Evans it has been practically decided to present the oratorio, "Messiah", at Christmas holiday time. Musicians both vocal and instrumental, from surrounding cities and towns are to be invited to participate, making it one of the greatest music festivals ever held in the history of the school.

As in former years, numerous Kenton singers are expected to take part in the oratorio.

While Dean Evans is to direct the chorus, organization and direction of the orchestra will be in charge of W. W. Rumser, Ada.

HARDIN COUNTY CORN CROP PROSPECTS GOOD

Few Warm Days Will Put Grain Out of Frost Danger

Kenton, Sept. 28—With a few more days of continued warm weather, warding off dangers of killing frosts, Hardin county farmers are expecting to harvest a good corn crop throughout the county this fall.

Corn cutting has begun in some localities on a small scale. The crop in other places is drying satisfactorily, farmers report, though the yield is expected to be lessened somewhat as the result of the backward spring.

A cold spring with cold weather continuing following the planting, resulted in cut worms doing much injury to the crop. It was found necessary to do much replanting.

According to reports, present prospects are causing many farmers to sell last year's corn crop which they held following the discouraging outlook earlier in the season.

Big cities are tolerant, though much of their tolerance may be indifference.

DAMAGE SUIT HEARING HELD AT MARYSVILLE

Two Alleged Rum Runners To Be Arraigned in Common Pleas Court Today

Marysville, Sept. 28—Much interest was centered around the hearing yesterday of the case of James Allen, of Jerome Township, vs. the State Insurance Fund. Gayford Allen, a milk hauler and son of James Allen, met death near Marysville over a year ago when he was struck by a Big Four gas car.

It is claimed by Mr. Allen and his wife that their son was their only means of support and accordingly filed a claim of $14 for 116 weeks, which was denied by the commission at a hearing some time ago. The court is to decide whether Allen was employed by the Nesbits Feed Co, to which concern, he was hauling the milk, or whether he was a contractor to himself. No decision was reached Monday.

Arraigned Today

Two foreigners, alleged rum-runners, will be arraigned before Common Pleas Judge here today, charged with illegally transporting intoxicating liquor. Both were captured by Officer Anthony Pharr in the past week. Both drove new Chrysler cars. The first to appear will be Samuel Rubeno, aged 23, who was captured Saturday. The other man, Jasper Spada, will have a second hearing, having pleaded not guilty to the first arraignment. He is also 25 years of age and claims Detroit as his residence.

Wed at Cleveland

A recent record of cupid's work, found in the Probate Court here contains the names of Gerald Carr, 28, mail carrier of Marysville, and Miss Gladora Heed, 21, of Richwood. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Heed of near Sylvalia. The groom, a graduate of Marysville High School, served overseas in the late war and has been employed as a rural mail carrier out of Marysville for a number of years past. They were married in Cleveland Saturday evening, taking a boat to Niagara Falls and other points of interest from that city.

Is there anything so distressing as cynicism in the young?

WHISKY SOLD AT 10c PER QUART

Kenton, Sept. 28—Bootlegging of the "good old days" is the accusation leveled by the town of Ridgeway and Marion, at Belle Center, south of here, and recently uncovered in a stack of old records stored in a garage in that town.

In 1855, 1856, whisky sold at 10 cents a quart in Belle Center, the records reveal. The names of practically all of the pioneer residents of the community appear in the book. Some of the charges are interesting, especially when compared with present day prices. Sugar was the only article that sold at approximately the same price as is asked today. Eggs were "three dozen for 10 cents," tobacco sold at 4 cents per cut, coffee at a shilling pound, and bats at 6 cents a pound. Many other staple products were quoted equally as low.

The firm of Ramsey and Mains was the late William Ramsey who later engaged in the banking business, now being conducted by his sons. Mr. Mains, prominent in the business history of Belle Center, later engaged in the Civil War as a captain of infantry.

LAD CRUSHED TO DEATH BY WAGON NEAR PIQUA

Charles Richard Williams, 6, Brought to Kenton for Burial Today

Kenton, Sept. 28—The body of Charles Richard Williams, 6, adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. David Marks, latest Kenton, who was killed beneath the wheels of a heavily loaded wagon at Farrington Elevator on the Dixie highway, near Piqua, was laid to rest today in the Kenton cemetery.

The tragic accident occurred while the youth was accompanying his foster father to the elevator to secure a load of coal. The two were inseparable companions. The coal had been loaded, several tons of it, and both were seated on the wagon ready to start home. When Marks picked up the reins and started the horses, one gave a sudden jerk, and the boy was thrown to the ground just eluding Marks's grasp.

The team was yanked to a halt but not until the life had been crushed from the child under the heavy wheel of the vehicle. His head was crushed.

MT. GILEAD HIGH MEETS DANVILLE TEAM FRIDAY

Squad Starts Week of Stiff Practice in Preparation for Contest

Mt. Gilead, Sept. 28—Last night found the Mt. Gilead High school squad going through the last of a series of stiff workouts scheduled for this week in the effort to strengthen the many weak spots brought to light Saturday, when the Purple managed edge a 6 to 0 victory over Belleville.

Next Friday a real contest in the meeting with Danville High here next Friday, the coaching staff hopes to add power to both offensive and defensive tactics of the local team.

Two of the four quarters played Saturday were in a downpour of rain. Mt. Gilead had a chance to score in the last moments of play by fumbling near the goal. The ball see-sawed back and forth the remainder of the half, with neither outfit having the advantage.

The Purple staged a march across the field in the third quarter and showed the best attack in the first minutes of the fourth. Makeover passed his try for point when the ball was blocked by a player on his own team.

LARGE ENTRY LIST IN EACH DEPARTMENT

To Present Pageant on Wednesday and Thursday Nights

Bucyrus, Sept. 28—Today, the Crawford County fair opens with unusually well filled entries and all expectations pointing to a most successful fair.

More interest is attached to the event this year because of the county's centennial which is to be celebrated Wednesday by an historical parade at 3 o'clock at the grounds. This is the first fair tracing a night exposition and much interest is being manifested in this innovation.

A pageant with members of churches, schools, lodges and other organizations to number over 1,000 will be presented Wednesday and Thursday evening. The evening attractions also include the works of a superior variety in connection with the pageant.

There are to be three $1,000 stake races on the speed program and over $10,000 is to be given in fair prizes.

Especial efforts by the Crawford County farm bureau to present a showing of the work of the boys and girls clubs over the county have been most successful and sewing, fruits, cooked products, livestock and agricultural products are among their exhibitions which forms a very informative and interesting display.

To raise the funds for the proposed improvements, which were indorsed in the last election by a large majority of the electorate, the Government has established a special fund for public works which taps about every imaginable source of revenue. The only comment a cursory examination of the special taxation system warrants is that it appears to bear most heavily on those best able to pay.

The special fund taxation went into effect at the beginning of the current fiscal year—July 15. It includes:

(1) Tax on Land Transportation. This includes a tax on every vehicle in use in Cuba from a push cart to an automobile truck. It ranges from $5 a year on push carts to from approximately $9 to $40 a year on horse-drawn passenger vehicles and small horse-drawn trucks, approximately $20 to $100 a year on passenger automobiles.

Ten Cents on Gasoline

(2) Tax on Gasoline. This provides a tax of 10 cents a gallon on gasoline used for motor transportation.

(3) A super-tax of one-half of one per cent on sales. There is already in effect a sales tax of 1 per cent.

(4) An annual credit of $5,000,000 beginning with the current fiscal year to be included in the national budget.

(5) A surcharge of 10 per cent on present import duties on all articles of luxury and of 5 per cent on present import duties on all other articles not of prime necessity.

(6) Tax of one-fourth of one per cent on money or its equivalent withdrawn from national territory to foreign countries.

(7) Tax of 2 per cent on the rental or proceeds of real property or of property rights or mortgages.

(8) An assessment by the National Government on municipalities of 50 per cent on the excess of taxes collected by such municipalities by reason of additional taxation returns accruing from the scheduled increases outlined above to be applied to the public works.

American Soldiers Get Greatest Pay of any Fighters in World; French Smallest

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 28—That the American soldier is the best paid soldier in the world has been known for many years. That at the present time he is getting more than fifty times what the French poilu is paid has not been so well known. This is so, however, according to figures secured at the San Francisco Presidio.

The American soldier's yearly pay is $252. The French soldier's yearly pay is $4.38. How they do it over there is a mystery to Uncle Sam's boys.

Only Great Britain approaches the United States in the amount of pay allotted to the individual soldier. The British soldier gets $240.90 per year.

Japan pays her troops at the rate of $23 per man per year. At that this figure is better than three times what Mussolini's soldiers are paid. The Italian trooper can save $6.20 a year if he puts his entire yearly salary into the bank.

Soldiers in some of the Central American armies are happy if they get their daily ration of tortillas and beans.

ENGLAND'S WITTIEST MAN SOON TO VISIT AMERICA

London, Sept. 28—Osbert Sitwell, England's most famous young poet-satirist, is leaving England for the United States in November, where he will probably give some renderings of his unique brand of poetry.

This is Sitwell's first visit to America. He is acclaimed to be the wittiest after-dinner speaker in Europe.

It is pretty hard to impart common sense and romantic stories to children at the same time.

AUSTRIA WELCOMES NAVAL VISITORS FROM ABROAD

Vienna, Sept. 28—Although Austria ceased to be a naval power after the treaty of Trianon, the government has had four official naval visits from foreign powers this year, which would have been excessive even for the Empire.

The American Admiral Wells and staff were the first to come to Vienna from their flagship anchored near Trieste. The Turks and the French sent naval staffs to the Danube republic next and a visit of several hundred English officers will be made this month.

The English will land at Pola, formerly an Austrian naval base, and will be escorted by former Austrian admirals to Vienna.

GREAT BRITAIN GIVES LICENSES FOR TELEVISION

London Radio Fans Hops Soon To "Look in" as Well as Listen in London, Sept. 28—With the granting by the British radio authorities of the licenses to J. L. Baird, the young Scottish inventor of a television apparatus, television may be said to have a fair chance to become a practical possibility, and already radio enthusiasts here are asking how long it will be before it is as common to "look in" as now it is to "listen in."

It is understood that the licenses granted to Baird will enable him to construct and distribute for sale any number of televisors, and also to establish a service whereby possessors of his invention will be enabled to "look in" to programs provided by his company.

According to Baird, in a year's time anyone will be able to see broadcast moving pictures, with a receiving apparatus which will cost around $150. Captain Hutchinson, Baird's business manager, is even more optimistic, prophesying that this will be possible within three months.

Gives Demonstration

Baird described his invention at a demonstration given to International News Service, during which he explained that he is actively working on the apparatus still, improving it here and there and constantly experimenting in the sending of pictures over various distances.

The subject to be transmitted is played on by a number of low-power electric lamps. Before it is the transmitter, consisting of a collection of minute metal tubes bound together in honeycomb form, a large number of lenses, behind which is a revolving shutter, and a light sensitive cell. The image is translated into sound waves, as it is in the form of sound, traveling via an ordinary radio aerial on the roof, that it leaves the transmitting station. At the receiving station the sound is retranslated into light and appears in rapidly-moving bars of red and blue light across the screen. The face of the sitter—if the sitter is a human—can be plainly seen and recognized, and every movement is caught with remarkable clearness considering the immature state of Baird's apparatus.

The wave length used by Baird at present is of 200 meters, and if the sitter speaks, his voice is transmitted simultaneously with the movement of his lips. "The rate of development of my invention will now depend solely on finance," Baird told I. N. S. "The whole thing is comprehensive. You turn a knob, and you see in a frame in the set the face of whoever is talking at the transmitting station. It is as simple as ordinary radio.

"People who know nothing of the brand new science of television are apt to think that it is a device for sending pictures, or at most, 'moving pictures.' That is quite wrong. Television transmits actual moving life. All that you see with a pair of field glasses you can see with television. All that you can see from the window of your home you can see with television. But the street scene may be thousands of miles away.

Making Progress

"Ever so many branches of science cooperate in my invention, but curiously enough, radio almost least of all. Various refinements are possible, although I am not sidetracking my main efforts now, but am concentrating on the great business of making ordinary television clear and unflickering, my progress in that direction being like that of early cinematograph pioneers.

"My results today are about as clear as the film of about 20 years ago, though my rate of progress is of course much quicker, and the clarity is improving rapidly. I have already been able to see the colors red and blue by radio, while stereoscopic television, giving the full illusion of life, is not out of range."

Automobile and One Baby Average Family, British Church Official Makes Complaint

London, Sept. 28—Charging that the average middle-class family of today consists of one child and an automobile and that only the latter alone is more than Prebendary Mackay, well-known official of the Church Army organization here made a strong attack on family limitation at a recent religious meeting.

"I am impressed by the loneliness of child life in the modern family. The old, healthy, happy group of children are disappearing," he said.

"Homes are not what they used to be long ago, children are lonely, and want to go to school for companionship. Their parents think too much of pleasure and their automobile to want to be bothered with children."

RED ARMY WILL DRAFT NEW TRIBES THIS YEAR

Moscow, Sept. 28—For the first time in Russian history the nomadic inhabitants of the Yakoutskaya Republic, comprising the central northern part of Siberia, will be called into the Red Army this autumn. This year the Yeks will be on those born in 1906. Most of the Yakoutskaya are native tribes, whose backwardness has been done been considered a bar to their entrance into the army.

The Soviet authorities, however, consider service in the Red Army one of the principal means of education. Only a few of the least civilized and smaller tribes, such as the Chuktchians, Koriaks, Gariliens, Lamutes, and Eskimos next to the Arctic Circle will be exempted.

CANCER KILLS 40,000 IN FRANCE EACH YEAR

Paris, Sept. 28—Cancer kills forty thousand people in France every year. These alarming statistics recently published have brought forth the foundation of an institute for the study and treatment of cancer, created by the department of the Seine and the Faculty of Medicine, upon the instigation of Professor Roussy and Jean Varenne, General Councillor of the Seine department.

If the deep causes of cancer still remain obscure, say these professors, the laws of its first development are becoming better and better known. Everyone knows that cancer, ignoring a local malady during a long time and during this period, it can very often be cured. There is a "therapeutic hour" for cancer, according to Dr. Charles Gramlande writing in "L'Illustration." Numerous experiences show that it can be cured at this time.

The new institute intends to coordinate and centralize all the work undertaken for the study of cancer, to facilitate research work and to establish suitable hospitals for cancer patients.

Lots of people are about half way between what you think they are and what they pretend to be.

Depth indulged becomes dou t realized.

GERMAN AIR LINE TO AMERICA POSSIBILITY

Service Will Be Transatlantic Passenger Carrying, Department Reveals

Washington, Sept. 28—A transatlantic passenger-carrying airline service between Germany and the United States is a possibility within two years, the department of commerce announced recently in a statement following reports by a German company to operate the proposed line.

The German concern already has taken steps to lay out an airway for the proposed service, the announcement stated. A trip of investigation to Reykjavik, Iceland, has been made by two German scientists, it announced, for the purpose of studying wind currents and sun beams and their effect upon future airplane route between Europe and the United States." Dr. Dorsch and a Dr. Georgi, professors of Hamburg University, conducted the experiments.

The proposed air route would start at Hamburg and pass via Scapa Flow to Faroe Islands, Reykjavik and Cape Farewell, Greenland, and would have New York as its ultimate destination, the department declared. "It is planned to send a large scientific expedition to Iceland next year for the purpose of investigating in detail all conditions which would be likely to affect the operation of airplanes over the contemplated route.

"Persons in Germany, interested in the project, state that under favorable circumstances the projected line may be opened by the beginning of 1928."

Two nuns were among the incorporators of a company recently chartered in London to build and carry on a school.

CHAPEAUX OF SEASON OF 1926-27 DISPLAY CHARACTER

THERE is a concerted effort among Parisian millinery houses to get away from the plainness and uniformity that has characterized milady's chapeaux. The plain felt and velour hats that have been popular for so long have become the despair of the artists in hat design as their talents are wasted where there are no ribbons to fashion into clever bows and no velvets and satins to manipulate.

The models shown above, are planned to show character and variety. All are from prominent Paris houses.

At the upper right is a model from the fall collection of Marguerite et Leonie, in which the tam o'shanter influence is observed. It is soft and crushable, fashioned of brown velvet, the sole decoration being a buckle which clasps the down-turned top above the right ear.

Coral and ruby grosgrain and velvet are combined in a chic turban (center) with draped crown from the atelier of Mme. Agnes. Right, king's blue velvet is stitched in loop effect with a wide band of lighter blue ribbon and a silver buckle. The turned-up visor brim gives an interesting off-the-face effect. Designed by Jane Blanchot.

Elaborate stitching characterizes the hat of lavender, blue velvet (lower left). Bands of stitching in contrasting colors forms the motif of this hat from Jeanne Vivet which is also a crushable type so popular in this country. The stitching also edges the narrow turned-down brim.

The same house is responsible for the felt and velvet chapeau (lower right). The brim has a novel cut-out effect, the velvet defining the sharply turned-up brim.

ARMY OF HELP MOBILIZED TO HANDLE 1926 GRAPES

San Francisco, Sept. 28—A veritable army has been mobilized throughout the United States to facilitate unloading of California's perishable products, with particular reference to juice grapes.

G. A. Leithaer, district manager, car service division, American Railway Association, San Francisco, states that 310 joint receivers and railroad terminal committees with a personnel of more than 5,000 have been established in the United States to actively engage in securing the prompt unloading and release of refrigerator cars carrying California fruits and vegetables.

One can be silent enough to make many people curious.

HUNGARIAN WHEAT MAY HIT AMERICAN EXPORTS

Budapest, Sept. 28—French ratification of Hungarian wheat may seriously affect American exports to that country within the next few years, it is believed, since powerful pressure for the lower freight rates for this grain is exerted by way of Trieste and not by way of Marseilles.

French experts recently found that by the wheat this way would reduce transportation costs below the rates from America, which probably would result in more orders for the Hungarian farmers. Formerly France received almost no wheat from Hungary because the high freight rates through Austria made it prohibitive.

Trieste is particularly well equipped with grain as there are a number of motorized elevators along its water front and the Italian government has granted freight rates and port charges in order to restore the city to its commercial importance under the Austrian Empire.

Italy now is the largest importer of Hungarian wheat.

TOWN USES THEATERS FOR ROOMING HOUSES

Balatonfured, Hungary, Sept. 28—The municipal authorities here have solved temporarily a house shortage problem by sheltering scores of families in the theaters of the town. The authorities in deciding that sleeping places were more practical for personal comfort than opera, commandeered the theaters and removed the seats.

The stages are used as a general park for the inhabitants where their dogs, fowls, and goats may roam about.

Balatonfured is a popular watering place but because the opera season has had to be cancelled the usual business has not been forthcoming this year, which has caused the merchants to protest fruitlessly to the municipal authorities.

POOR HUNGARIANS MARKET CHILDREN

Debrazen, Hungary, Sept. 28—Three children have been sold on the open market here by destitute parents. The mother, Anna Branjik, offered to sell the children, three girls, at the weekly cattle market. They were bought at once by farmers, the eldest fourteen years old sold for 900,000 crowns (about 13 dollars), the next, three years old, 300,000 crowns, and a child two brought only 100,000 crowns.

The mother and father of the children are woodcutters and unable longer to provide food for them.

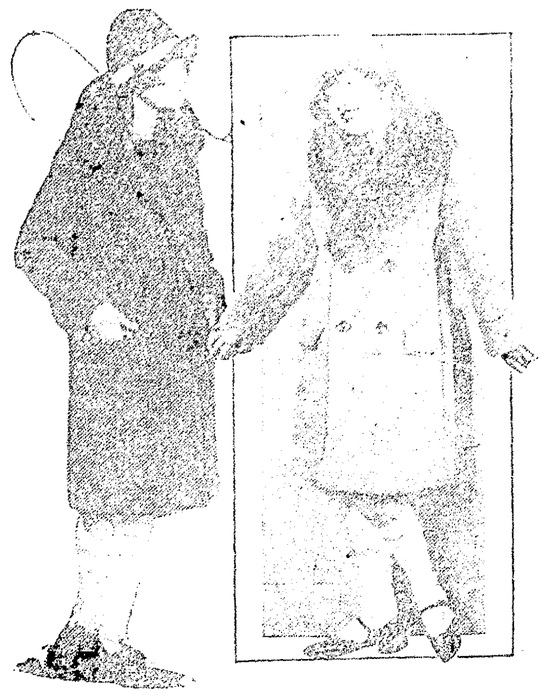
The child market is not a novelty here for frequently poor parents are forced to sell their children to others, who raise them to work in the fields.

AUSTRIAN GOVERNMENT HAS 137,908 UNEMPLOYED

Vienna, Sept. 28—The Austrian government now supports 137,908 unemployed people. The figures are for July and are an increase for the first time in twelve months. Almost all of these on the dole are city dwellers, Vienna alone housing 76,089.

There is another 14,000 unemployed persons in the State, who, however, maintains a more dignified mein by living on savings or benevolent relatives.

SMART JUNIOR STYLES ARE FEATURED



JUNIOR fashions are just as important as those of adults and now is the time of year when mothers are especially interested in them as they are busy outfitting their young people for school. The first few weeks the children may well wear their summer frocks and spring coats or sweaters—unless they are going away from home, but the colder weather will soon be upon us when warmer clothing will be needed.

Above at left is a prettily tailored coat for a 12-year-old. It is a brown chinchilla, double breasted, and finished with a collar of raccoon. The young miss likes her coat fur collared as well as mother and raccoon is essentially youthful and "collegiate."

The hat is black felt and has a fairly wide brim turned up in front. A wide band of white ribbon edged with black is the trimming.

The coat on the right also has a raccoon collar which comes down well on the coat—in fact, a shawl collar. This coat too, is double breasted and a chinchilla, this time blue. The matching hat is also blue chinchilla with blue velvet facing. It has a slightly rolling brim with a perky red leather quill drawn through the brim for trimming.

LIQUOR WANES, SAYS MELLON IN STATEMENT

Secretary of Treasury Says He Saw Little Drinking at Big Bout

Washington, Sept. 28.—Drinking is on the decline in the United States, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon so states. He took issue yesterday with the conclusions of the Moderation league.

Mellon said there is no doubt that the supply has decreased with more efficient prohibition enforcement. Not so much is coming from Canada. The recent act of God in Florida, with its destruction of shipping, did more to help the prohibition situation there than the federal agents have been able to do, in Mellon's opinion.

Little Drinking at Fight

One of Mellon's associates, who attended the Dempsey-Tunney fight, said he saw very little drinking there. He said that in the old days of open saloons there would have been indescribable drunkenness. This alone, he thought, was evidence that prohibition is prohibiting.

The Moderation league's act report asserted drunkenness is on the increase, called the Volstead act an utter failure, and said wise restriction would have been better.

Other developments in the liquor situation were:

1. Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League, denounced the Moderation league report as being without foundation.

McAdoo Takes Stand

2. William G. McAdoo, Democratic presidential aspirant, said in Los Angeles that New York and Maryland seek unrestrained liberty, and are in effect in rebellion against the United States.

3. Col. Frank Smith, Republican senatorial candidate in Illinois, said in Chicago that senators cannot vote to legalize beer and wine without violating their oaths to support the constitution.

4. Mrs. Ella Boole, president of the W. C. T. U., said in Los Angeles that wets have made some progress in their campaign for beer and wine, but warned her fellowworkers that compromise would mean defeat for prohibition.

5. New York state Republican and Democratic conventions wrestled over prohibition planks with Democrats leaning toward modification and Republicans inclined to stick to a simple law enforcement declaration.

NEW BUILDING URGED

French Lick Springs, Ind., Sept. 28—Prompt construction of a larger fire proof building for the United States patent office at Washington was urged here at the opening of the National Wholesale Druggists convention. The present patent building is congested and a fire trap, William McKinley, of New York, chairman of the organization's trade mark committee, told the association.

CAN'T USE ALL BARLEY

Edinburgh, Sept. 28—Alcoholic beverages are less in demand by the people of the British Isles. As a result, distilleries have let it be known they will be unable to consume the barley crop.

Because of a huge stock already on hand, many smaller distilleries are suspending manufacture until next season. Foreign consumption is said to be normal.

SHE MISSES CHOW MEIN

New York, Sept. 28—Augusta Miller, after four years as a nurse in the Presbyterian hospital at Point Barrow, Alaska, furthest point north of the United States, said on her return to New York, the thing she missed most during her Arctic sojourn was the chow mein of the Chinese restaurants on Broadway.

MAY ABANDON FIGHT

Bridgeport—That Ohio coal operators will abandon their fight against the Jacksonville agreement until the time comes to negotiate a new agreement next March was indicated here by the announcement that approximately 3,000 additional miners had been put to work in the weeks that have elapsed since the Ohio Coal Operators association was incorporated. This was taken to mean that the mine owners, who wanted to break the agreement and put 1917 or 1920 wages into effect in Ohio, will not make any attempt to run their plants at rates below the agreed scale.

90 PASSENGERS RESCUED FROM WRECKED SHIP

Ward Liner, Mexico, Runs Aground on Madagascar Shoals Near Progresso

Mexico City, Sept. 28—All of the 90 passengers and all members of the crew of the Ward liner Mexico, which ran aground on Madagascar Shoals, near Progresso, have been rescued, dispatches from Progresso today stated.

The rescue was effected by the American steamer Rajah, with the Hamburg-American liner Rio Panuco standing by and cooperating. It is feared the Mexico is a total loss. She is hung hard and fast on the rocks of Madagascar Shoals with heavy seas constantly pounding her. She is a steel ship of 6,000 tons, plying regularly between New York, Havana, Progresso, Vera Cruz and Tampico.

A report of the rescue was made by wireless by the Rajah to Progresso. The report said the Rajah and the Rio Panuco had stood by the wrecked vessel all day yesterday, until a brief lull enabled small boats to approach the Mexico and take off the passengers and crew. The Rajah is proceeding to Progresso, where those rescued will be disembarked.

The Mexico carried 90 passengers, among whom were many Americans. Among those whose names are known are Mrs. Edward J. Herbert, of Mount Vernon, N. Y.; Paul G. Linde, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Pulgarick and their baby; Miss Rosamond Cowan; Miss Regina Fanelly; Miss Grace Fanelly; Mr. and Mrs. Emilio Iverson; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Reeves and three children; Robert H. Sagendorf; H. E. Zumbada; William Miller Jones; W. L. Davidson, all of New York.

...ware when an aristocratic English ...flers in an airplane with an aviator ... she has never seen, rather than to marry ... a man she does not love. The picture's journey terminates in the jungles of Africa where adventures follow each other in quick succession.

An elephant hunt, a primitive battle between two native factions, a spectacular forest fire are a few of the startling happenings that occur before the solution of this fascinating story is reached.

"White Man" contains some extraordinary acting by the well known film favorites who make up the cast. Alice Joyce, who makes her return to pictures in this vehicle, is more beautiful than ever.

Kenneth Harlan in the name role has found a part superior even to "The Virginian" in which he scored such a marked triumph last season.

And in extolling the excellent performances of these players we have to add that a piece of real screen art is contributed by Walter Long.

"Private Izzy Murphy"

George Jessel, famous for his portrayal of "The Jazz Singer," one of the spectacular Broadway hits of the last year, is now starred by the Warners in a serio-comic heart drama of the days of the World War, "Private Izzy Murphy," at the Marion Theater Sept. 30 and Oct. 1 and 2.

Izzy Goldberg, having to leave his quarters in the Ghetto, aids drawing appeal to the customers of the Irish neighborhood into which he moves, by renaming himself "Murphy." His delicatessen business thrives to the most of making it possible for him to bring papa and mamma from Russia. They come. Are delighted with their son's success. All goes well. And then—the World War!

"Izzy" joins up with an Irish regiment, still keeping the Hibernian name, with which he has also courted pretty Eileen Cohananigan, and goes overseas. Word comes that he has been killed in action. But after the armistice, when the boys are parading up Fifth Avenue among the cheering crowds, when confetti drifts like snow, and bugles blare—the Goldbergs go wild with joy to see their boy among the rest.

The complications which follow (with Eileen's father, Mac Ginsberg, the marriage broker, doughboys, neighbors) are so mirth-provoking, so human, that everyone in the audience forgets that such things as rancor and prejudice can exist in the world! It is one of those rare plays which have universal appeal. It is as American as baseball. As all inclusive as the circus!

"Private Izzy Murphy" was directed by Lloyd Bacon, author and star of "Lightnin'," and a genius in his own right. Vera Gordon, famous as the mother in "Humoresque," plays the part of Izzy's mother.

Patsy Ruth Miller is "Eileen Cohanigan," the pretty Irish sweetheart, and the supporting company make the play a riot of mirth, a rough-and-tumble of all things American.

"It Must Be Love"

Topping her other splendid performances in a story full of amusing surprises and human touches, Colleen Moore has scored in her latest First National production, "It Must Be Love," which comes to the Marion Theater next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

There is a pert, yet wistful, air about this star which fits admirably into such a story as "It Must Be Love." As the misunderstood daughter of a delicatessen merchant Colleen carries every member of the audience with her in many moods. A droop of the mouth, and many mouths droop in the audience. A twirl on the toe and a birdlike gesture with the pantomimic hands, and the audience howls with delight.

The John McCormick production, directed by Alfred E. Green gives Miss Moore every opportunity to display her versatile talent, ranging from deep sobriety to a state of intoxiating hilarity.

Besides Miss Moore's superb performance, special mention goes to Jean Hersholt as the bluff father and Bodil Rossing as the sympathetic mother. Other interesting characterizations were played by Arthur Stone, Dorothy Seastrom, Cleve Moore, Mary O'Brien and Ray Hallor.

"Broken Hearts of Hollywood"

"Broken Hearts of Hollywood" at the Grand Theater Thursday, Friday and Saturday presents an excellent "back-stage" view of Hollywood. With unmerciful realism and yet without moralizing, it shows the sordidness and unhappiness that exists in the film colony in a way that should make any movie-struck girl give up all aspirations for a screen career.

The story is about a retired actress who leaves her husband and baby daughter to go back to the bright lights of Hollywood. But having dissipated her good looks and lowered her morals by drink, she quickly finds herself just another "has-been" on the fringe of movie circles.

Years later, the daughter wins a beauty contest and comes to Hollywood with her lover. Playing opposite the mother who keeps her identity a secret, she finally succeeds in becoming famous.

"Broken Hearts" is one of the most entertaining pictures on Hollywood I have ever seen for a long time. Louise Dresser as the old mother who wavers between gin and her daughter, is superb. Patsy Ruth Miller and Douglas Fairbanks, jr., carry the love interest convincingly.

"3 Bad Men"

"3 Bad Men," an inspired screen story of one of the most romantic periods in the history of American empire building, dealing with the opening of the many millions of acres of Indian land to the white man, will be the feature event which will appear at the Grand next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

"3 Bad Men" will stagger by the immensity of its theme and the grandeur of its production. Over 15,000 people appear in some of the scenes, depicting the never-to-be-forgotten invasion of the Dakotas. The horses, oxen, dogs, cattle, prairie wagons and other vehicles, including bicycles, surveys, wheelbarrows, hand wagons and prairie schooners, run into the thousands. The huge sets reach proportions where mere figures become meaningless.

The cast includes the notable J. Farrell MacDonald, Tom Santschi and Frank Campeau in the roles of the "rascally three," who will win the plaudits of the world by their characterization of this strangely assorted trio. George O'Brien and Olive Borden play the pioneer lovers, supported by such well-known character actors as Alec Francis, Otis Harlan, Lou Tellegen and Jay Hunt.

"The Vision"

The old saying "There is nothing new under the sun" is all wrong when it comes to motion pictures. The Marion theater has been fortunate in procuring for its patrons for Thursday, Friday and Saturday a new color film, "The Vision," which is considered far in advance of any picture of its type that has yet been shown at local theaters. The subject, a Romance Production, may truthfully be termed a perfect film—in story, cast, direction and photography it is without a peer.

Based on the Millais painting "Speak! Speak!" the story has a powerful dramatic message that will grip the soul of the most perverse picture "fan."

Julanne Johnston and John Roche surrounded by an exceptionally fine group of players, make up the cast of this short feature.

The direction is by Arthur Maude, of whom the Los Angeles Times recently said:—

"Invariably the pictures written and directed by Arthur Maude are clean, free from suggestiveness and the sickly sex situations that sometimes destroy otherwise beautiful pictures."

For photography the Technicolor Process has been used throughout the entire length of the picture, and it has been so beautifully done that the production stands out as a masterful art creation rivaling the beauty of nature itself. "The Vision" is said to be the most beautiful picture that has ever been made in natural colors.

King Boris of Bulgaria is the youngest of the crowned heads of Europe. The king is particularly fond of mechanics and one of his chief hobbies is to drive the engine of the Orient Express through his country. Another hobby of his is to wander in the beautiful forests of Bulgaria, with the Professor of Botany at Sofia University as his only companion, hunting for rare specimens of ferns flowers and other native plants.

Up to thirty, a man spends his time enjoying his illusions; after that, he spends it in fruitlessly looking for more.

NEW SLEEVE TREATMENTS ARE FEATURED IN FALL FROCKS

SLEEVES are the most distinguishing features of many of the new fall dresses. The tight fitting sleeve of tailored lines is good, but it competes with the loose, baggy type which gathers into tight wristbands. Novel treatments and trimming add variety to these sleeves.

Pictured are two dresses which illustrate the above. At the left huge peasant sleeves are hand-painted in futuristic designs to match the designs on the frock. This frock is extremely simple in cut and is belted at a normal waistline.

Bell shaped sleeves trimmed with wide bands of white crepe de chine bound with floss in peasant colors are the feature of the one-piece frock (right). A yoke of white crepe de chine adds a youthful note to it. It is developed in dark green flat crepe with knife pleated skirt with silver buttons running down the front.

In the center is the popular type of hat—a small blue felt, the crown forming a beret effect and trimmed with grosgrain and crystal spangle.

CLOUDBURST WIPES OUT VILLAGE IN AUSTRIA

Vienna, Sept. 28.—A cloudburst lasting only an hour has almost wiped out the town of Velden in the Austrian Carinthians. In a few minutes the rain swelled the small rivers which flow through the town and inundated all the houses and stores. Scores of animals were drowned as the water rushed down the mountains.

In the neighboring village of Ossiach, the forceful water swept through the little cemetery washing out all the graves and exposing the coffins.

There is, after all, one instrument in flames in republics.—Public anger.

ORDER AGAINST WINE DESTROYS GRAPE MARKET

Two Hundred Carloads of Fruit Decaying in Cleveland Freight Yards

With 200 cars of grapes decaying in freight cars on railroad tracks in Cleveland, Ohio growers today face heavy losses, according to word received here.

Many of the cars now in Cleveland passed through Marion on the trip to that city, several heavy shipments of grapes being recorded in local freight houses.

The situation in Cleveland is a result of current prohibition interpretations, it is said.

A group of 15 grape growers yesterday appealed to U. S. District Attorney A. E. Bernsteen in the hope that some loophole in the law would permit persons to make 200 gallons of wine for family use, as was done prior to the current crop.

The ruling was made last year after the crop had been marketed, that this practice would cease. Many raids since have depleted the stocks of family wine.

Up to the present time railroads operating through Marion have been planning for great grape shipments during the next two weeks. With the shipments remaining in their present condition, little trade in grapes, it could, it was said today.

The department in charge of the compiling of records of the veterans asks that they submit their names, position at this time, date of their departure to engage in the war activities, and date they returned to the service.

The names will be kept on record in the New York office for future reference.

SUPREME COURT RECONVENES IN FALL SESSION

Ohio Judicial Body Faces 107 Cases and 160 Appeals on Dockets

Columbus, Sept. 28—Terminating its summer recess, the State Supreme Court reconvened in fall session here today with 107 cases and 160 appeals on the general and motion dockets.

Oral arguments were scheduled for hearing today on three cases, including an appeal of David Adkins, negro, under death sentence for the murder of Harry A. Malone, railroad detective, near Canton, in August, 1925. The execution date has been postponed until the Supreme Court renders a final decision.

The second case up today was brought by Jacob Zettler and others of Columbus to compel the State Tax Commission to tax property of fraternal organizations. The third case to be heard today was the appeal of William J. Bowman, of Cincinnati, from the verdict of the Hamilton County court's rejection of his $50,000 suits against William O. Lemon, of Cincinnati, growing out of an alleged assault.

CONTRACTORS COMPLETE ASPHALTING UHLER-AV

New Paving Will Be Ready For Inspection in Several Days

The H. P. Stretcher Co., Toledo, Monday completed its work of spreading asphalt on the section of Uhler-av that is included in this year's street paving program. This practically completes the Uhler-av work and the paving will be ready for inspection by the City Board of Control within a few days. All street improvements must be accepted by the board before final estimates are paid.

The Streicher asphalt plant has been moved to Spencer-av and it is expected that the surfacing of that thoroughfare will be completed Wednesday.

Rainy and cold weather has been causing considerable delay in street work, City Engineer Cathers states, but it is believed that all of the construction projects now under way will be completed before the close of the fall season.

FOUR OHIOANS CONTRIBUTE TO PEACE BOOKLET

Plans Being Made for Declamation Contest Sponsored Here by The Star

Four Ohioans are among the 16 writers of articles on world peace that are included in the book of selections just published by the Ohio Council of Churches for use in its second annual Peace Declamation Contest, now being organized among the churches of the state.

The contest in Marion County is being sponsored by The Marion Star and the Marion County Ministerial Association. The Star is offering a capital prize of $25 for the winner of the county declamation contest.

The four Ohio contributors to the book are:

Newton D. Baker, Cleveland, secretary of war in the Wilson cabinet.

John H. Clark, Youngstown, ex-justice of the United States supreme court.

Judge Florence E. Allen, Columbus, of the Ohio supreme court.

To Memorize Selection

Rev. Dr. William Hiram Foulkes, who recently left the pastorate of Old Stone Church in Cleveland to assume a pulpit in Newark, N. J., is also a contributor.

Each contestant will memorize one of the published selections and deliver it as a declaration in competition with others in his local church. Later church winners will meet in county contests and county champions in congressional district contest. Finally the district leaders will come together in a state contest with $1,000 in cash prizes and three college scholarships at stake. Church, county and district championships will be recognized with bronze, silver and gold medals, respectively.

The contest is open to Ohio boys and girls of 14 to 18 inclusive, with the exception of present or former college students. Local church contests are to be held throughout the state on Armistice Sunday, Nov. 7.

CLAIMS CO-ED DOINGS TOO SHOCKING TO PRINT

Editor of The Witness Defends Young Man Who "Revealed" Conditions

Chicago, Sept. 28—Goings-on too shocking to print prevail in the co-educational institutions of the land, according to Rev. William B. Spofford, editor of The Witness, an obscure organ of the Episcopal church. It came into prominence recently by publishing a series of attacks on the American co-ed under the signature of Wilfred Cross, a sociology student of the University of Illinois.

Reverend Spofford has come to the defense of these essays with a blast against the morals of the American campus.

"I am proud that our paper took this opportunity of pointing out to its readers conditions as they actually exist among the young people of our day," the pastor says in an editorial upholding the articles. The editor then reveals that he has made an investigation of campus life and has found them just as Cross said, if not worse.

"When I was in college, morals were very bad. But in those days we had what is called a conscience." Stafford says. "Today, this moral standard is breaking down. Young people do what they please, and the result is a [illegible] of immorality. [illegible] of the heavy percentage of [illegible] which reaches that man is a mere [illegible] whose actions are to be explained as the result of stimulus and [illegible] due to the teaching of a lot of [illegible] professors."

To humility, the social [illegible] is about zero.

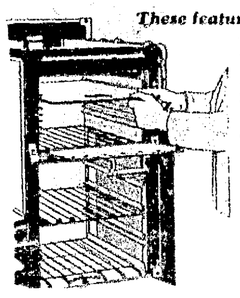
Exclusive Features

These features can be found only in the

DIRECT ACTION



All Direct Actions shown in this ad have the famous Elastic Oven. The oven can be "stretched" when extra space is needed. This is accomplished by pulling out the section or division between the oven and broiler. This enlarges the oven by converting the broiler to form the upper part of the baking oven.

"Direct Action" means that the burner is right in the oven with no need for pre-heating as the heat acts directly on the cooking or baking. This constitutes a big saving in time and gas.

BRITISH WEATHER MAN FORECASTS WHOLE YEAR

London, Sept. 28—The ability to make accurate weather predictions a year in advance is claimed by Ernest Huggett of Beaconsfield.

Huggett says that the weather on the earth is governed entirely by the action of other planets. By observing the movements of these he is able to predict the weather for any given date or period.

"Each planet as it circles throws a ring on the earth," says Huggett. "It is the intersection of these rings which are responsible for weather changes."

Government meteorological authorities have been asked to investigate Huggett's system with a view to adopting it for the official forecasts.

BUDAPEST CHARITY SENDS 6,000 CHILDREN TO CAMP

Budapest, Sept. 28—Six thousand poor children have been sent to summer camps this year under the new municipal program for child welfare. The city government plans to increase the number of outings each year until everyone of the 40,000 poor children of the city have a chance to spend a part of their summer vacations in provincial surroundings.

A part of the burden of expenses is borne by the village to which the children are sent. They provide milk and garden produce free for the camps. This is the first year that the free vacation plan has been attempted and it brought forth more than 30,000 applications from school children.

BANK OF ENGLAND TO BE REMODELED AND WASHED

London, Sept. 28—The "Old Lady of Threadneedle Street"—London's pet name for the headquarters of the Bank of England—is to have a wash after many years of grime.

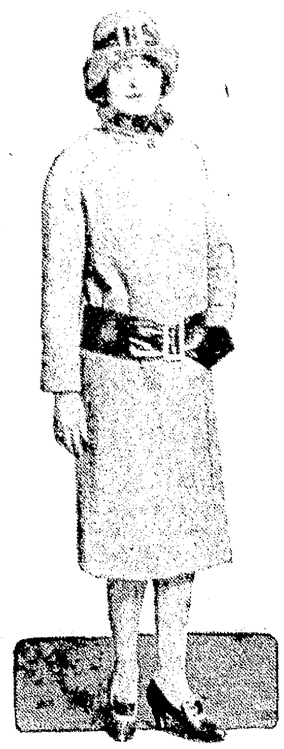
The internal part of the Bank building is being remodeled, and the outer walls are to be cleaned in order not to clash with the newer part now rising.

Experts are carrying out experiments with various cleaning preparations in order to make the "Old Lady's" wash a thorough one.

One of the most satisfactory of "careers" is to possess a fortune of $50,000 in a town of 700 people.

One of the greatest drawbacks to posing as a highbrow is that you are likely to be insulted.

SMART SIMPLICITY STRESSES STYLES FOR JUNIOR WEAR



JUNIOR fashions as seen at the fall showings are as interesting and smart as those for grown-ups. Above is pictured an ensemble of hat, coat and shoes.

The "Peter Stuyvesant" hat features the high crown and is made of brown and white English mixture. Its stitched brim is slightly rolled on either side. A brown vici kid belt is drawn around the crown and through a dull gold buckle in front.

The coat is fashioned of the same material as the hat and is also trimmed with a wide belt of vici kid drawn through a buckle. It has a standing collar, edged with fur.

The costume is completed by brown kid shoes with a dull gold buckle to match the hat and coat.

CZECH ARMY OFFICERS GET FOREIGN SCHOOLING

Prague, Sept. 28—Scholarships following study in foreign countries have been offered by the government to army officers studying foreign languages. Two scholarships are allowed for those studying Serbian or Croatian; three for Roumanians and three for Hungarians.

The successful candidates will be sent to the foreign capitals to complete their studies, all the expenses being borne by the Czecho-Slovakian government.

The Rebekah Assembly, which has just celebrated the seventy-fifth anniversary of its founding, was organized in 1851 as the women's auxiliary to the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and was the first order of the kind for women.
